

B.C. Bond Issue

Schools Helped

By IAN STREET

The provincial government will pour $15,000,000 into new school construction by means of a new bond issue to be taken up by government-administered pension funds.

The cabinet Thursday approved sale of debentures. Proceeds of the bond issue will be apportioned among various school districts, according to need, with the allocation being decided by the department of education before Dec. 15, when the issue closes.

NO BORROWING

The entire amount will be taken up by the government-administered pension funds, and won't involve borrowing on the open market. The bonds, yielding 6 1/2 per cent, are repayable in 20 years.

More than $60,000,000 has been spent on B.C. schools in the past year. The province sold $83,000,000 worth of debentures for the purpose between October, 1966, and October of this year, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said in Vancouver recently.

BY CHRISTMAS

Greater Victoria at the moment has about $2,500,000 worth of projects awaiting provincial approval, and expects to add another $2,000,000 by Christmas.

The cabinet order-in-council, released by the premier's office late Thursday afternoon, permits

Victoria Projects Caught

OTTAWA 'PETS' AXED

Benson

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Thursday dropped dozens of pet projects from its 1968-69 spending plans in a long-heralded series of austerity moves announced in the Commons by Revenue Minister Benson.

Ottawa cut hard into civil service expansion, reduced the budgets of the CBC and a host of government agencies, suspended all work on the causeway to Prince Edward Island from New Brunswick, and said a review of causeway plans will look into everything from a solid crossing to hovercraft ferry service.

In B.C., the main effects will be in the Victoria area—deferral of a West Coast Oceanographic Institute, and delays for a forest research laboratory and a Veterans' Hospital addition. Work will be slowed on the Queen Elizabeth telescope in the Interior.

B.C. will also be hit by a reduced subsidy for construction of steel hull fishing trawlers and a halt to contracts for large search and rescue cutters.

Attorney-General Bonner greeted the news by saying the economy measures hardly touched the main spending area where thrift could be achieved.

SLIGHT EXPANSION

He noted growth of the federal civil service will be limited to two per cent or 5,000 positions in the next fiscal year, half the usual, and said the "big bill" in government is not projects, the big bill is payroll and all they've said is the payroll is being allowed to expand ever so slightly.

Mr. Bonner also criticized a renewal of the decision to start national medicare next July 1 and Resources Minister Williston said an $80,000,000 limit to provinces for construction of vocational training schools, down one-third from this year, hits job placement . . . "a most critical area."

TENTATIVE STAGE

A spokesman for the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria said the postponed addition was only in the tentative planning stage, while local research director R. R. LeJeune said the deferred expansion was not a large one.

Biggest project deferred in Greater Victoria was the Oceanographic Institute, talked of since 1960 and rumored for Esquimalt harbor. Benson called the government measures "a difficult but necessary task."

WILL TAKE OVER

His speech ended the special anti-poverty secretariat in Ottawa. The cabinet secretariat will take over.

Retired civil servants will go without higher supplementary pension benefits through 1968-69. Benson said the Dominion Coal Board will be abolished, emergency measures programs scaled down, and the armed forces reduced by attrition to a strength of 100,000 from the current level of 107,000.

SEPARATE AREAS

The CBC international service will be merged with the CBC proper in the corporation's regular budgeting next year.

The revenue minister delivered 51 separate areas of cuts and delays, saying they are just some of the economies necessary to live within the government's self-imposed spending ceiling of $10,300,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The government, like a large business, "must from time to time reflect and review its prospects," he said.

COMPANY CUT

"We must make hard decisions in order that in the long run our business may prosper."

Among specific cuts are a 20-per-cent reduction in the budget of the Company of Young Canadians, an $11,000,000 reduction in the CBC's requested operating budget and $32,000,000 reduction in the capital budget it wanted.

Benson said necessary increases in postal staff to maintain service will take up fully 2,000 of the 5,000 new civil service positions to be opened up next year.

The Details

● Civil service growth rate limited to two per cent, half the rate of recent years.

● Reduction of armed forces to 100,000 men from the present 107,000.

● CBC to absorb cost of running the CBC international services within its operating budget.

● CBC operating budget to be $11,000,000 less than asked, and CBC capital budget to be $32,000,000 less than asked.

● Expansion of CBC color TV facilities deferred.

● New forestry research labs in Winnipeg, Victoria, Fredericton, Quebec and Newfoundland deferred.

● Plans deferred for building addition to Victoria Veterans' Hospital in B.C., and Camp Hill Hospital in Halifax.

● Work of Queen Elizabeth Telescope in B.C. to be slowed down.

● Starts on West Coast Oceanographic Institute, a floating laboratory and two

Only Five Back NDP In Confidence Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Only four Creditistes and one independent MP supported the NDP Thursday as the Commons defeated a non-confidence motion involving Finance Minister Sharp's tax increase.

The 186-24 vote saw 75 Conservatives, three Socreds and another independent support 106 Liberals. A Tory non-confidence motion goes to a vote Monday.

Ouimet Quits In Sequel To Judy Feud

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's long search for a new CBC president took on added urgency Thursday as Prime Minister Pearson announced Alphonse Ouimet has asked to be relieved of the $40,000-a-year post Dec. 15, and his firm resignation has been accepted.

The arrangement was made between the two in a telephone call by Ouimet Nov. 17. Just two weeks after the CBC president feuded with State Secretary Judy LaMarsh over her charge of "rotten management" in the CBC.

NEW BILL

Ouimet originally announced his intention to resign in October of 1966 but said then he would stay on until the government's proposed new broadcasting legislation was passed.

Although the long-delayed bill still is before the Commons, he told Mr. Pearson in a confirming letter Nov. 23 that he would like to leave by Dec. 15 "for personal reasons." He is 59.

Pearson also agreed with Ouimet's suggestion that, if

Press Faces Strike Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild decided Thursday night to launch strike action against Pacific Press Ltd. at 8 a.m. today.

Contract talks between Pacific Press, which prints Vancouver's two daily newspapers, and the Guild broke off earlier Thursday with the Guild saying it had "no alternative but to take some other route."

Len Guy, president of the Vancouver local of the International Typographical Union, said printers at Pacific Press would not cross picket lines established by the Guild.

The Guild represents about 670 editorial, advertising, business office, circulation department and other non-mechanical employees at the Sun and Province.

Wednesday, Pacific Press made what it called its final offer — a wage increase of 16 per cent in a 28-month contract on wages that range from $47 a week to the key senior reporter classification of $147.75.

The Guild made a counter-proposal calling for increases ranging from $18 a week for employees earning less than $50 to $37.50 for those earning $140 or more. This was rejected by the company.

Thursday, at a further meeting requested by the Guild, the Guild reduced its demands to 22 per cent over 28 months. This also was rejected.

Pacific Press last week reached tentative agreement with four craft unions — printers, mailers, stereotypers and pressmen — on new contracts, but these have yet to be ratified by the union membership.

B.C. has reached agreement with the federal government on a formula to provide increasing housing in this province, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Thursday.

He said in an interview the scheme is a new federal-provincial partnership but he declined to give details. Mr. Campbell also indicated his colleagues gave the plan cabinet approval Thursday morning.

Details are expected to be announced today.

LONG DISCUSSIONS

Mr. Campbell said the new plan was arrived at following lengthy discussions between himself and Labor Minister Jack Nicholson, whose portfolio includes the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

POSSIBLE MODEL

Mr. Campbell added the B.C.-Ottawa agreement will not be presented as a proposal by him at next week's federal-provincial housing conference. However, he said, it might be discussed as a possible model for other provinces.

Housing authorities speculated the plan involves setting up of a provincial housing authority to administer housing for the elderly, welfare cases and students.

The Ontario government this year set up HOME—Home Ownership Made Easy—a plan that allows persons to obtain a building lot without purchasing it immediately.

Purchasers have the choice of leasing the lot for 50 years or buying it on time over 35 years. After having obtained the lot, the prospective homeowner is responsible for his own building arrangements.

Kidnappers Given 24-Hour Deadline

PARIS (UPI) — Interior Minister Christian Fouchet Thursday gave the kidnappers of a seven-year-old Versailles boy, Emmanuel Malliart, 24 hours to return the child to his parents.

Fouchet went on national television to tell the abductors he was calling off a massive police search in the hopes the child will be returned.

"The life of a child has a supreme value, more than any money," Fouchet said. "Think things over. Return this child safe and sound. I give you 24 hours until midnight, Dec. 8."

Fouchet said the manhunt would be resumed after midnight Friday and the kidnappers punished with the full force of the law if caught. He promised leniency if they returned the child before then.

Patrice Malliart told reporters on his way to school that the kidnappers said the ransom now was 60,000 francs ($12,960) instead of 20,000 francs ($4,320) demanded when the boy was kidnapped Monday.

Meanwhile police released Jean-Claude Mansion, 33, who became a prime suspect when he telephoned the parents Wednesday to offer his service as a private detective. Police said they accepted his claim that he was only seeking work.

Young People Want to Share Christmas

Victoria's young people are rallying to ensure that their anticipated Christmas treats will be shared by all the city's youngsters, through The Daily Colonist 500 Fund.

Broodies of the 1st George View troop have brought in their annual donation of "fairy gold," and members of Colquhoun school choir have also sent in a donation.

"We feel that in this year especially we would like to help our fellow man," says a letter from Colquhoun. "We hope this donation will bring happiness into someone else's life."

Meanwhile, four chapters of DeMolay, boys between 14 and 18, are arranging a dance to help the 500 Fund.

Mo Motifs group will be donating their services for the dance at the YMCA from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday. "Last year we gave about $125 to the fund, but we hope to get twice that much this year," said a DeMolay officer.

The Oak Bay, Goldstream, Signal Hill and Victoria chapters are arranging the dance. Anyone in semi-formal dress will be admitted at the door.

Tickets are $1 each or $1.75, and all profits will go to the fund.

Donations to the 500 Fund — and all are welcome — may be mailed in or brought to the Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or to Avis Rent-A-Car, 800 Douglas.

Why Does VLA Exclude Widow?

STANDING ALONE: A reader, who asks to remain anonymous, wants to take a crack at the administration of the Veterans' Land Act. The lady who signed her letter asks if as a defender of "lost causes" this column would bring the plight of widows of servicemen to public notice.

The letter outlines the problems of two women whose husbands were killed in battle. The widows were left with the usual minuscule pensions and children to raise.

One of the widows is well qualified to earn her living and is doing so, and at the same time bringing up her children. She is capable of handling mortgage payments, and so she asked the VLA for a loan to build a home for herself and her family. She was turned down flat by a series of VLA officials on the ground that there was no provision made for widows.

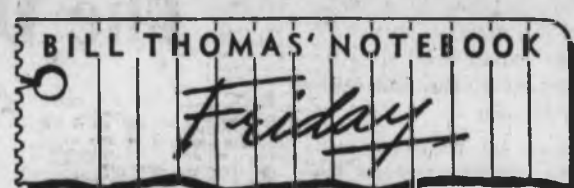

After a round of the usual gibberish that most government departments generate, the same woman was told there was the possibility that she might remarry.

The matter is the more pressing for the fact that the deadline for applications for VLA help is October of next year.

Much of this legislation is well intended, but then, "the road to hell is paved with good intentions." If a woman chooses to remarry, there is no reason why her VLA mortgage could not be transferred to her husband as a conventional NHA loan or carried by the VLA if the woman chooses to retain her property.

The VLA plan was intended to help returned soldiers, but how much more important to help those who soldiers never made it home. Possibly MPs George Chatterton or David Gross could take this up.

GREAT IDEA: R. F. Hood of Van Isle Electric spends a great part of his day driving about the city and he, too, is concerned for the safety of pedestrians. I suggested a massive campaign to ticket erring pedestrians.

Mr. Hood has a more positive suggestion. He feels the city police should conduct traffic safety programs at the senior citizens' centres, showing films and slides of the accidents that have killed and crippled elderly people. To support his argument, Mr. Hood points out the value of the traffic safety programs conducted by the police in schools and also the fine record of the school patrols.

A SUPPORTER: Recently there was an item suggesting that deputy minister of travel Ron Worley spend more time getting to the people rather than fooling with film stars at special banquets.

Now the owner of the Olde England Inn has come to the defence. Sam Lane says the department is getting to the people of the United States and is sending out six parties of publicists from March 4 to 8 to cover Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Each of the teams will be composed of local hotel, motel and tourist attraction operators, and each team will be led by a member of the travel department staff.

The teams will present slide programs and answer questions about the Greater Victoria area. They will speak to service clubs, automobile associations and travel agents.

Mr. Lane says each member of the team except the government people will be paying his own expenses for the trip, and he should know because he has been on 12 of these jaunts.

His line of publicity must work, for he has had a cracking year at his Esquimalt location, and has played host to such stars as Raymond Massey, Donald O'Connor and Van Johnson this summer.

HE CALLS BACK: Recently I mentioned that government officials are not too efficient when it comes to returning phone calls. This brought a gentle rebuke from CFB Esquimalt Lt.-Cmdr. Ray Wormald says his information office always returns calls.

This rebuke is not really valid because Lt.-Cmdr. Wormald spent much of his life as a newspaperman covering the marine beat, and he knows the value of good public relations first hand. But he is correct — his department does call back.

WELL, NOW: Sometimes comic strips make fun of something they don't mean to. Take the following few lines from a recent one on the life of Sir Winston Churchill. It reads, "Winston Churchill... rides with the last Calvary Charge in British military history."

COUNTRY COUSINS: It's Wagon Wheel Roundup time again out in Metochin. Keith Potts and his family of singers will have at it in Metochin Hall at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The show will also feature Tom Craycroft, the Country Aces, Paul Nedohin and Les Whitehead.

no successor for the post has been appointed by then, an acting president could be named by the CBC board of directors.

The CBC president's letter referred to a telephone conversation with Pearson "last Friday." That would be Nov. 17, just four days after the CBC directors, including Oulmet, issued a public statement criticizing State Secretary Judy LaMarsh.

TV CHARGE

Miss LaMarsh had accused the CBC of "rotten management" during an interview of the Pierre Berton TV show Nov. 1.

On Nov. 3 Oulmet wrote the state secretary asking that she provide the CBC with the information on which her "rotten management" charges were based. She wrote back immediately turning down the request and calling him arrogant.

CBC STATEMENT

The CBC directors then issued their Nov. 13 statement rejecting categorically Miss LaMarsh's accusation.

In his Nov. 23 letter to the prime minister, Oulmet recalled that when he originally announced his intention to resign he expected it would take three or four months to get the new legislation. But this had dragged on to more than 14 months.

SPRING FLEE

Last spring he had told Pearson he would like to turn over his duties to a successor "as soon as he could be appointed."

"We're now approaching the end of the year and I hope you will understand my desire to set a definite date on which I could plan my future activities," his letter said.

33 YEARS

Oulmet said that when he leaves he will have spent 33 years in public broadcasting service.

"... There could have been easier ways to serve, but none as compelling and rewarding," he added.

Pearson expressed the government's gratitude for "the untiring, unselfish and expert enced service you have given to Canada while you have been connected with the CBC."

"I am in a good position to know the problems you have had to encounter and the difficulties you have had to face, which make me all the more grateful," the prime minister said.

Pearson also told Oulmet he appreciated Oulmet's position "which has not been an easy one."

Tax Break May Clean Air

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering tax incentives to encourage private citizens to install anti-pollution devices in home heating units and automobiles, Finance Minister Sharp informed the Commons Thursday.

He also said tax incentives given to industry to encourage installation of devices reducing water pollution may be continued into 1968.

But the question of similar incentives for air and soil anti-pollution devices "is a new matter requiring more thorough study."

"I am grateful to you for your courtesy and consideration in postponing your retirement in view of legislation and other developments," said Pearson. "I can quite understand your wish now to set a definite date to leave by Dec. 15."

Oulmet was in charge of CBC engineering before becoming assistant general manager in 1951. Two years later he was promoted to general manager and the president's title was added in 1958.

Carotid Removal Failure

By DR. JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
Dear Dr. Molner: As you tell me how successful removal of the parotid gland has been for asthma sufferers? — Mrs. H.G. I think your pen slipped, and you meant the carotid body, not the parotid gland. (The parotid is one of the salivary glands located forward of the ears.) Removal of the carotid body (called glomectomy) in the neck has been tried with the goal of helping patients with asthma or emphysema. It has not been successful, according to reports I have read. True, there are proponents of this operation, but they are in the minority.

At my meals I do not combine pure fats with high starches or sweets, or acids and carbohydrates with high starches or worse. I eat small meals and never eat between meals, but it does not seem to help. I am wondering whether I do not have enough hydrochloric acid. I have heard that pure elder vinegar would correct that condition.

At my meals I do not combine pure fats with high starches or sweets, or acids and carbohydrates with high starches or sweets. Do not combine high proteins with them, either. But nothing seems to help. I hope you can help me. — J.C.

I would throw away and forget whatever book you are getting this diet business from. It obviously isn't doing your heartburn any good — and these theories about not mixing different kinds of food do not have any basis in fact.

No, vinegar will not replace hydrochloric acid. I have only one sound suggestion for you: Go to your doctor and let him figure out what is causing the heartburn. It might be lack of hydrochloric acid, and if it is, he can easily compensate for that. But it might be any of a number of other ailments, ulcer, hiatal hernia, gall bladder disease.

Queen's Pilot Killed

NEWBURY, England (AP) — The Queen's personal pilot, 47-year-old Air Commodore John Blount, was killed Thursday when a royal helicopter plunged into a field near this Berkshire town.

The RAF helicopter — frequently piloted by the Queen's husband, Prince Philip — dropped like a stone, killing all four aboard. Witnesses said a rotor blade broke off just before the crash.

Blount was captain of the Queen's flight. He was accompanied by Sqdn. Ldr. M. M. W. Hermon, Queen's flight engineering officer, Sqdn. Ldr. J. H. Liversidge, helicopter captain, and Flt. Lt. R. Fisher, naviga-

Romanian Youth Triumphs

BUCHAREST (AP) — Young Turks in Romania's Communist regime Thursday won a power struggle with the old guard as President Chivu Stuka proposed to a national party conference that it name party Secretary-General Nicolae Ceausescu to succeed him.

Stuka, who was expected to resign shortly, also proposed that the post of president and party chief be combined. He said the changes had become "necessary to eliminate parallelism in the activities of the state council and higher party organs."

Ceausescu's rise to final power at the age of 49 makes him the youngest state and party chief in Communist East Europe.

PARTY POSTS

It also reverses the Soviet-inspired principle of "collective leadership" in Romania through division of top state and party posts laid down in 1965 following the death of its president and party chief, Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej.

The top state and party posts are already combined in East German, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, while other countries including the Soviet Union maintain the rule of collectivism.

VOICE CHOKED

His voice sometimes choking with emotion, the 67-year-old Stuka told the conference the party command had decided to adopt the new principle of "unitary leadership" in all activities to ensure "representation, at the highest level, in the international sphere, of the policy of party and state."

Royalists Cut Off Yemeni Capital

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Royalist forces in Yemen have cut off the capital of San'a, brought it under bombardment and given the besieged Republican regime 40 hours to surrender, a Royalist Ben spokesman said Thursday.

Hashem Ben Hashem, Royalist social affairs minister, said in Beirut that Abdel Rahman Idrisi, head of the three-man Republican presidential council in San'a, had fled to Cairo.

The reports were denied by the Republican ambassador in Beirut, Abdel Baydani. He said he had no reports of fighting around San'a and that Idrisi had planned to go to Cairo for talks on the coming Arab conference.

The Soviet news agency Tass, citing reports from San'a, said "heavy fighting" raged around the capital and Royalist forces were meeting stiff resistance from the Republican defenders. San'a radio mentioned fight-

Iraq Already Negotiating

French Arms for Mideast?

PARIS (AP) — French officials said Thursday negotiations are under way for an arms deal with Iraq in what appeared to be a major shift in French Middle East policy. The news caused dismay in Jerusalem.

President de Gaulle imposed an arms embargo on the Middle East in June at the outbreak of hostilities between Israel and surrounding Arab states. Israeli forces quickly won a stunning victory in the June 5-9 war, thanks largely to French-made Mirage fighter-bombers.

planes, four training planes and 150 armored cars.

French sources said France has no reason not to sell arms to Arab countries. It would be better for Iraqi forces to handle East countries have made requests for arms and that French arms-makers were wringing their hands about lost sales.

Some reports, neither official nor confirmed, said Iraq is asking for 50 Mirage V fighters, 15 Mirage E-3 fighters, eight Nord-Atlas troop-carrying

TURNED DOWN

Shortly afterward, Israel sought delivery of 50 more Mirage planes but the Israelis were turned down and relations between Jerusalem and Paris became severely strained when de Gaulle accused Israel of being the aggressor in the war.

French sources now say the sale of arms to Iraq is considered "desirable" and indicated other Arab nations would also receive a more favorable response to arms requests.

SOME REPOSITS

Whackless W.A.C.

BRITISH COLUMBIANS who were concerned over the fact that Premier W. A. C. Bennett did not see fit to attend the Confederation of Tomorrow conference of provincial premiers last month may well be distressed by his decision to absent himself from the federal-provincial conference on housing next week.

Apart from Manitoba—which was in the middle of changing premiers at the time—British Columbia was the only province not represented by its government leader at the Toronto meeting. Next week British Columbia will have that dubious honor alone when all provincial premiers—except Mr. Bennett—will meet with the prime minister and other federal cabinet ministers to discuss one of Canada's most vexatious problems—the housing shortage.

Though this province will be taking part in the proceedings through Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, it is difficult to understand why the premier himself could not find time to put in even a short appearance at the parley.

Certainly the lack of housing is a matter which has affected British Columbia every bit as much as it has every other growing area in the country. And like most other provincial leaders, Premier Bennett has levelled considerable criticism at Ottawa for its policies of taxation on construction materials and its restrictions on the money market which have slowed down building starts to a crawl.

This being so, then how incredible it is that the premier should choose to miss out on the remarkable opportunity this conference would afford him (it will be fully covered by the national press and TV) to have a personal whack at the federal government before the very eyes and ears of the whole nation.

How odd, too, that he should pass up the chance of hearing other views—perhaps new, perhaps valuable—on the subject put forward by other premiers from other provinces.

And, of course, how selfish to deny them the wisdom of his thoughts on the matter.

A Question of Power

THE ASSURANCE by Dr. Gordon Shrum that the B.C. Hydro Authority of which he is co-chairman is not neglecting its Vancouver Island customers at the expense of Peace River and Columbia River developments, will be welcomed.

Dr. Shrum has explained that the brownout threatened for the Island this winter and next is due not to Hydro neglect but to failure of manufacturing firms to come up with the equipment required to import an additional electrical supply from the mainland grid.

It is also reassuring that following local criticism of the brownout, Hydro has announced it will increase the water storage at the Butte-Campbell Lake complex in order to increase the potential output at the Elk Falls generating plant.

With the tremendous growth in the use of electricity on Vancouver Island during the past few years, the amount of power generated on the Island has shrunk to about half the total consumption. During that period the increased flow has all come via submarine cables from the mainland.

Hydro is satisfied that this is the right way to bring low cost power to the Island, and no doubt it is correct but the fact remains that if any of the four existing cables under the Gulf of Georgia goes out of commission, by accident or otherwise, Vancouver Island would be in a serious energy crisis.

One of the four cables is now held as a reserve in case of such trouble arising, but it is Hydro's plan to have this converted into a direct current carrier. However, the converter transformer ordered did not meet the specifications, and the delay in its arrival is held responsible for the brownout possibility this winter.

Once the transformer is installed—probably next summer—there will be no reserve submarine cable, and Hydro is meeting this contingency by laying another set of four cables which will be specially built to handle very high voltage direct current. These cables, however, like the transformer, are overdue from the manufacturers.

When completed three AC cables and three DC cables will be in use with one of each in reserve.

Whether this is an ample margin of safety for Island electricity needs is an engineering estimate but it does not remove the possibility of disaster by act of God, and the fact that submarine cables and their accessories take so long to replace—as is evidenced by Hydro's present difficulties with equipment suppliers—leaves a measure of apprehension that the Island should be so increasingly dependent upon this underwater link.

Merry Inflation

A CERTAIN MORAL reprobation, a Canadian Press writer said in connection with the federal mini-budget, "is attached to smoking and drinking, and governments traditionally find excise taxes on tobacco and alcohol easiest to increase. It remains to be seen whether provincial markups on the same commodities will be adjusted in the same direction."

The wait has not been long. In British Columbia the markups have been adjusted not only in the same direction, but approximately the same distance. The increase for a bottle of liquor as a result of the federal tax boost was estimated to be about 15 cents. In B.C., with the extra provincial profit added, it will be 35 cents. Beer has been raised less but wine more in proportion.

And the morality of the premier of the province, personally sound and sincere as everyone will acknowledge it to be, has found equally quick expression. People punish themselves when they smoke and drink. Liquor doesn't pay half the costs it creates in additional services like policing, institutional care and social welfare.

True—and the right touch of reprobation to oil a tax increase or, as Mr. Bennett prefers to call it, a wider profit margin which will help to pay higher education and welfare costs.

He has semantics on his side. When a government monopoly increases the price of a service which is essential to most of the people, this may be seen as higher taxation. But most of the people can do without liquor—and the price increase—if they want.

Call it what one will, however, whether a higher tax or a raising of the revenues of "government enterprises" (Mr. Bennett's budget euphemism for liquor sales), it is another of those inflationary price increases that the premier has so much deplored in other quarters. And timed, to boot, to take all possible advantage of the merry Christmas trade.

The man who would halt inflation.

Man's Mark on Paradise Island

By DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE

NATURE has so many ways of appealing to man's sense of beauty that there are few virgin landscapes, and perhaps no seascapes at all, that are altogether ugly in our sight. Nor did man deface nature by the first of his masterful transformations of her. From an aircraft today the pattern of the fields with which man has embroiled the cultivable surface of the earth is no less beautiful than the forests and mountains and deserts that man has so far left untouched.

So long as man's physical power was limited to the musculature of human beings and domesticated animals, man had to woo nature; he could not coerce her; so he was not able to do her any grievous damage. Today man is no longer wooing nature; he is violating her; and the effects of his machine-work are hideous. The ancient pattern of the fields may no longer be there to delight the eyes of our grandchildren.

Already rifts in the clouds reveal to the traveller landscape-shattering autobahn, smoke-belching chimneys, dumps of the carcasses of discarded cars, and domitory towns obliterating the lovely pattern of the fields—the galloping cancer of "eumenopolis," the coming world-wide city.

In a world in which man has the power to spoil nature, it is healthier to go back to travelling by the still-unpolluted, and possibly unspeakable sea. The Pacific Ocean is the biggest tract of it, and my wife and I have just crossed from San Francisco to Yokohama. We called at Hawaii.

"Development" there has been intense. So Hawaii must be beautiful only in patches; though the beauty is still dazzling; miniature mountains whose jagged sky-lines and precipitous flanks might be envied by the Himalayas and the Andes; dense jungles woven out of an astonishing variety of shapely trees; reefs on which the Pacific breaks in gleaming surf.

Sugar-cane and pineapple plantations on the plain have a tamer beauty of their own. Man does not disfigure nature as long as he takes no liberties with her beyond cultivating her.

Half way through the 19th century the successive stages of the onset of Western imperialism were enumerated laconically by the Emperor Theodore of Ethiopia:

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

William Lyon Mackenzie, organizer of the rebellion in Upper Canada, fled 130 years ago today—in 1837—after the lieutenant-governor and the militia defeated the rebels at Montgomery's Tavern, near Toronto. A price was put on Mackenzie's head for his capture but he escaped to the United States. Mackenzie returned in 1849 under amnesty but never regained a following.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1917—Jerusalem was captured by Gen. Sir Edmund Allenby's forces; the Portuguese government resigned; Ecuador severed relations with Germany; the Austrian battleship Wien was sunk by Italian torpedo boats in Trieste harbor.

"First the missionary, then the trader, then the soldier." In Hawaii the traders who followed the missionaries were the missionaries' own children. Those sugar-cane and pineapple plantations were created by them to catch the American market. A distinction of terms in the English language has been illustrated by the dictum that in Hawaii, the missionaries did good and their children did well.

Considering how profitable the missionaries' children's plantations have been, the missionaries' native Hawaiian converts have been lucky. The soldier did follow the missionary and the trader, but in Hawaii the intrusive soldier has not altered the native population's blood.

The Hawaiian royal family was not deported, it simply died out. The process by which an independent Polynesian kingdom has become first a territory and then a state of the United States has been a peaceful and humane one. It has all happened within my lifetime.

However, in Hawaii the tourist has caused the devastation of which the soldier has been innocent. If you can bear to see "the abomination of desolation standing in the place where it ought not" take a look at Waikiki at a time of day when the sunshine has been replaced by the neon lights. At Waikiki the beauty of Hawaii has been desecrated by a lava-flow of affluence.

In this world-renowned urban patch of Hawaii the prospect does not please. It is, in fact, vile, and man has made it so; but Hawaiian man is certainly not vile himself. So far from that, he is tolerant, amiable and wise enough to have succeeded in living in peace and unity in a multicultural community.

Hawaii is a section of the United States in which there is the same freedom from inter-racial antipathy as there is in Mexico, Brazil and the Islamic world.

I noticed an inter-racial courtesy that reminded me of the inter-linguistic courtesy practised in Switzerland.

"Isn't it true that the first governor of the state is a Chinese-American?" I asked our driver.

"No," was the answer, "he is a Caucasian."

Parliamentary language is a recipe for keeping the emotional temperature low, and the inter-racial idiom of parliamentary language is to label people by geographical tags, not by the color of their skin. I do not know why the Caucasians have been deemed to be the home-land of the minority of the human race who have a dedication of pigment in their hides, but this label, though capricious, is inoffensive; it does not get under Nordic skins like the labels "bleached" or "white."

Today this little island is one of the most affluent places in the world. The average number of cars per family is said to be three. In Honolulu there is the biggest shopping centre on the face of the planet, with the greatest square-footage of parking-space in the highest file of tiers. Ninety-two per cent of Hawaii's lavish food, consumer goods and building materials comes in from overseas, and only a small fraction of all this can be paid for by the raising and export of pineapples and sugar. The plantations can sustain a few millionaires, but they could not support Hawaii's population of over 400,000 for a week. Like Los Angeles and Miami, Waikiki is a parasite on the affluence of the whole of the continental United States. America can afford luxury, but for Waikiki the alimony is precarious.

Perhaps the future may be depicted from the present and the past. Besides being a playground for continental American tourists, Hawaii is a base for the armed forces of the United States. Their installations are unobtrusive, but their ubiquity is revealed by the signposts on the roads. The soldier is back again. The military business, like the tourist business, brings in money, but at the cost of a more serious risk.

The last lap of our drive around the island took us within sight of Pearl Harbor. Having seen Nagasaki, where the Japanese-American bombing story ended, I was eager to see the historic lagoon of seawater on which it had begun. My mind ran back to the moment in Britain when I had heard the astounding news from Pearl Harbor, and had realised instantaneously that, contrary to all reasonable expectation, Britain was now destined to be on the winning side in the war.

All four of us turned out to be able to talk about Pearl Harbor without embarrassment. One Japanese host was not personally implicated; on Pearl Harbor day he had evidently still been a child—I sometimes forget that I am now rather old. As for our Hawaiian-American driver, born of a Japanese father and a Chinese mother, his family history came cheerfully tumbling out. And as he spoke, the driver pointed out the monument to the American battleship Arizona, and told us how a Japanese naval officer who had taken part in the operation now comes every year to that monument in Pearl Harbor to lay a wreath there. I had raised the explosive subject, and, between the four of us in the car at the moment, there was concord. Then I thought of another white marble monument—the statue at Nagasaki pointing to the spot in the air overhead at which that other bomb had exploded. In the same flash I thought of my grandchildren, and a shiver ran down my back.

The Weaker Sex

By JOHN NEWELL

IN terms of the survival of the human race, it is not difficult to understand why more boys than girl babies are born. For, contrary to public opinion, men are the weaker sex. They do not live as long, they suffer more from infectious diseases, both as adults and children, and are more susceptible to shock, pain and fear than women.

For these reasons Nature has provided a male-to-female sex ratio at birth, over the whole world, of 0.5146; that is 51.46 per cent of all babies born are boys. Artificial medical care is, to some extent, doing away with the biological need for the excess of males over females, by allowing the more fragile members of the weaker sex to survive and mate. As one expert has recently written, "we are now heading for a world in which the male sex is the minority of the population."

While it is relatively easy to see the need for an excess of boys over girls at birth and to discuss the effects of abolishing that need, it is less easy to understand the mechanism which determines the sex ratio.

One theory which has been put forward is that the sperm which carry male characteristics are marginally lighter and swifter in movement than those which carry female characteristics, because the male sex chromosome, or Y chromosome, is smaller and lighter than the female X equivalent and so is more likely to achieve fertilization of the egg. But the latest theory to be developed, which has some experimental evidence to back it up is more complex. It has been proposed by the distinguished geneticist Professor C. D. Darlington, of the Oxford Department of Botany, together with three other Oxford zoologists and botanists, to account partly for the sex ratio.

Put simply, their idea is that more boy babies are born because the egg cells from the mother are more developed within. There is, of course, a paradox here, which is that normally any human body tends to resist the presence of any foreign cell within it—the more vigorously the more foreign the cell is. But there is now a good deal of experimental evidence that in fact this resistant, so-called immune reaction, in which antibodies are formed in response to the presence of foreign proteins or antigens, actually aids the implantation of egg cells into the mother's womb after fertilization. No one yet seems fully to understand how the antibody-antigen reaction aids implantation, but a number of workers have put forward evidence that this is so. Darlington suggests that, since the male cell contains more antigens than the female, it will be favored at implantation, and that this is the explanation of the sex ratio.

The thing which makes the male cells more foreign is their possession of the male sex chromosome, the Y chromosome. The genetic material carried on this is responsible for the production of the particular bits of the cell which make it male, and since the mother is female these constituents are foreign to her and so will tend to evoke an extra degree of immune reaction, which will not be present with female cells containing no Y chromosome.

This extra effect is bound to be small, because the Y chromosome is a tiny chromosome, but it could be sufficient to tip the balance in favor of the male eggs and so, to produce the sex ratio.

The evidence for the theory is as follows. The greater the similarity between male and female eggs in general the greater the effect of the Y chromosome might be expected to be, because its effect will remain constant in marriages between first cousins, blood relations, the genetic contribution of the parents are unusually similar, and so on. Darlington's theory one would expect the Y chromosome to have an unusually strong effect and so to evoke an extra degree of immune reaction, which will not be present with female cells containing no Y chromosome.

Arbitrary Decrees

Closures Worry Argentine Press

By PENNY LEBNOUX from Buenos Aires

ARGENTINE newspaper and magazine publishers are growing increasingly concerned over the possibility of restriction of freedom of the press as a result of recent measures undertaken by the military government.

Two magazines have been closed in less than a month. And an attempt to revive one of them, Prensa Confidencial, under another name was promptly squashed.

What worries Argentine journalists is not so much the fact that the government has taken action against these magazines but the way in which the action was carried out.

Instead of resorting to the courts and already existing laws against press libel, the government simply decreed the closing of the offending magazines and confiscation of all copies in their publishing offices and on newsstands.

Furthermore, the action was directed against the magazines, not their publishers, editors or reporters. Under Argentine law, the individual, not his newspaper or magazine, should be charged, judged and punished for an offence.

The closures of Prensa Confidencial (Confidential Press) and the weekly magazine Azul y Blanco (Blue and White) have not been the first repressive actions against the press under this government.

Shortly after the military toppled President Arturo Illia in June, 1956, the weekly humor magazine Tia Vicente was banned for making fun of the luxuriant moustache of Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, the new president, by comparing it to a walrus' whiskers.

However, Tia Vicente soon reappeared under a new name, Maria Belem, albeit without reference to walrus' whiskers.

Up until recently, Tia Vicente was the exception to the government's policy of avoiding any action which might jeopardize an atmosphere favoring freedom of the press.

Fears were expressed by several newspapers earlier this year over the appointment of Federico Frischmuth, a public accountant whose background indicated a tendency toward dictatorial action, as secretary of tourism and information.

But these fears subsided with the government's continual reiteration of its respect for freedom of the press and a policy against the enactment of a press law which might lead to restrictions.

Any newspaper censorship has been largely self-imposed.

Now, however, the closure of Prensa Confidencial and Azul y

Blanco has produced clouds on the horizon.

In the case of Prensa Confidencial, a rather sensationalist publication, the government based its action against the magazine on the grounds that "it exceeded tolerable limits through deliberately false information and attacks against the reputation of state officials and chiefs of the armed forces in a systematic way."

Azul y Blanco, which tends toward extreme nationalism, was banned because the government claimed it had committed "all sorts of excesses through which it hoped to undermine the basis of the revolution, create division in the heart of the government and the armed forces and defame functionaries."

The magazine's "excesses" included a column of unpleasant jokes whose chief protagonist was Onganía.

Neither magazine can drum up much sympathy among serious journalists on the basis of their editorial content, which tends to be exaggerated. But the magazines and their publishers have received widespread support as a result of the way in which the government decided to punish them.

A large segment of the metropolitan press has protested against the closure of Tia Vicente, the Buenos Aires Herald. "The right to publish their information and opinions, however dubious and objectionable, is being stoutly upheld. Excesses—and we should say there have been plenty of them—are properly regarded as an issue for the courts."

The Inter-American Press Association sent Onganía a telegram protesting the closure of Prensa Confidencial during its annual October meeting in Puerto Rico.

And the Buenos Aires daily La Prensa published its second strongly worded editorial on the subject.

"Now actions demonstrate that without desecrating any law, the exercise of freedom of the press is practically subjected to the government's criteria since, through the use of decrees, it impedes the circulation of press organs or closes them," La Prensa noted.

"Constitutional guarantees do not govern. They appear to be substituted by a regime of arbitrariness."

Adding fuel to the fire, in the eyes of Argentine journalists, the offices of Azul y Blanco were raided without a proper warrant and police entered the home of Juan Manuel Abal Medina, the magazine's editor, despite his resistance, according to Medina.

Why Boy Babies Exceed Girls

By JOHN NEWELL

IN terms of the survival of the human race, it is not difficult to understand why more boys than girl babies are born. For, contrary to public opinion, men are the weaker sex. They do not live as long, they suffer more from infectious diseases, both as adults and children, and are more susceptible to shock, pain and fear than women.

For these reasons Nature has provided a male-to-female sex ratio at birth, over the whole world, of 0.5146; that is 51.46 per cent of all babies born are boys. Artificial medical care is, to some extent, doing away with the biological need for the excess of males over females, by allowing the more fragile members of the weaker sex to survive and mate. As one expert has recently written, "we are now heading for a world in which the male sex is the minority of the population."

While it is relatively easy to see the need for an excess of boys over girls at birth and to discuss the effects of abolishing that need, it is less easy to understand the mechanism which determines the sex ratio.

One theory which has been put forward is that the sperm which carry male characteristics are marginally lighter and swifter in movement than those which carry female characteristics, because the male sex chromosome, or Y chromosome, is smaller and lighter than the female X equivalent and so is more likely to achieve fertilization of the egg. But the latest theory to be developed, which has some experimental evidence to back it up is more complex. It has been proposed by the distinguished geneticist Professor C. D. Darlington, of the Oxford Department of Botany, together with three other Oxford zoologists and botanists, to account partly for the sex ratio.

Put simply, their idea is that more boy babies are born because the egg cells from the mother are more developed within. There is, of course, a paradox here, which is that normally any human body tends to resist the presence of any foreign cell within it—the more vigorously the more foreign the cell is. But there is now a good deal of experimental evidence that in fact this resistant, so-called immune reaction, in which antibodies are formed in response to the presence of foreign proteins or antigens, actually aids the implantation of egg cells into the mother's womb after fertilization. No one yet seems fully to understand how the antibody-antigen reaction aids implantation, but a number of workers have put forward evidence that this is so. Darlington suggests that, since the male cell contains more antigens than the female, it will be favored at implantation, and that this is the explanation of the sex ratio.

The thing which makes the male cells more foreign is their possession of the male sex chromosome, the Y chromosome. The genetic material carried on this is responsible for the production of the particular bits of the cell which make it male, and since the mother is female these constituents are foreign to her and so will tend to evoke an extra degree of immune reaction, which will not be present with female cells containing no Y chromosome.

This extra effect is bound to be small, because the Y chromosome is a tiny chromosome, but it could be sufficient to tip the balance in favor of the male eggs and so, to produce the sex ratio.

The evidence for the theory is as follows. The greater the similarity between male and female eggs in general the greater the effect of the Y chromosome might be expected to be, because its effect will remain constant in marriages between first cousins, blood relations, the genetic contribution of the parents are unusually similar, and so on. Darlington's theory one would expect the Y chromosome to have an unusually strong effect and so

immune reaction, which will not be present with female cells containing no Y chromosome.

This extra effect is bound to be small, because the Y chromosome is a tiny chromosome, but it could be sufficient to tip the balance in favor of the male eggs and so, to produce the sex ratio.

Potential Home Buyers Can't Afford Payments

Costly Money Fans Housing Crisis

By DENNIS ORCHARD
from Ottawa

A man who can afford rent of $160 a month lives with his wife and five children in a tent near Vancouver because he cannot find accommodation.

An Edmonton woman places a newspaper ad and rents her house less than an hour after the first edition hits the street. By an oversight the ad runs an extra day and she receives 249 calls.

In St. John's, Nfld., prospective buyers lined up 24 hours ahead of time for a sale of 321 serviced lots in a new subdivision.

These are symptoms of the Canadian housing crisis as federal and provincial officials prepare to meet here Monday to ponder remedies.

A Canadian Press survey of major cities across the country shows that the overall situation has not necessarily improved this year despite a step-up in building activity.

Public housing facilities remain far from adequate, hardly more than a dent in needs of metropolitan areas. Rental accommodation is almost universally tight and expensive, with 89-per-cent occupancy in some cities indicating many families endure sub-standard conditions. Mortgage money is easier to get than in 1966, but it costs so much that thousands of potential home buyers cannot afford the payments involved.

When the National Housing Act rate went to 8 1/2 per cent from 7 1/2 per cent this year, it added almost $2,200 to the total cost of a $15,000, 25-year mortgage.

Comparable monthly payments are $107.39 at 7 1/2 per cent and $116.90 at the 8 1/2 per cent rate, with typical urban property taxes of $40 or $50 a month on top of that.

Conventional mortgage money in some cities is available only at nine per cent, which adds another $10 a month and $3,000 over the term of the mortgage. Builders may beat their 1965 record of 32,500 housing starts in Metropolitan Toronto this year. For some time more than one in every three units under construction in Canada's 19 largest cities has gone up in Toronto.

But at the same time the cost of a lot in the area is $10,000, more than triple the national average and the average cost of new homes is currently $25,000 to $30,000. Officials estimate the price of housing in the city has increased by at least one-third in the last three years.

Buying older homes is impossible for all but the wealthy.

Conventional mortgages range between 8 1/2 and 9 1/2 per cent in Halifax, between 8 and 8 1/2 per cent in Winnipeg, up to 8 per cent in Edmonton and up to nine per cent in Calgary.

Top rate in Vancouver is 8 1/2 per cent and the range on Vancouver Island is 8 1/2 to nine per cent.

Housing conditions are better in 1967 for Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, but Nova Scotia is wrestling with a serious situation in Halifax.

Halifax social worker Marvin Burke says the city needs at least 2,000 new housing units and a "depressing and unfair" situation faces tenants.

Quebec is putting more effort into apartment construction but more single and semi-detached homes are going up in Manitoba.

Bombers Enter Picture

Reds Tighten Mideast Grip

By K. C. THALER from London

The appearance of a Soviet bomber squadron on "a goodwill visit" in Egypt has spotlighted Moscow's growing determination to move in force into the strategic Middle East.

The unprecedented move follows the build-up of a Soviet naval force in the Mediterranean, pointing to Kremlin intentions to make the Soviet Union the second naval power in the area. It is not already. The United States Sixth Fleet still dominates the Mediterranean, and Britain has a few ships left in it.

These latest developments signify a major change in Soviet strategic and political thinking. The Soviet Union, which in the past was geared to land warfare, has shifted to wider fields and is now ostensibly out for "mobility" and "flexibility" which would enable her to play a more global role in the future.

Today the Soviets already maintain a permanent naval squadron in the Mediterranean, equipped with destroyers, missile-carrying ships, submarines, radar and communications units, and supply ships.

It owes its existence largely to the fact that the Soviets have solved their supply problem.

They have created a long-range supply system and are using advanced supply ships and a series of floating bases, with oil tankers and cargo ships anchored in international waters.

Even more important, they now have increasing facilities in the Egyptian ports of Alexandria and Port Said and in Syria's Latakia. These are not labelled formally as "bases," but they provide in effect most of the facilities afforded by military bases.

The frequent visits recently of Soviet ships in Alexandria reflect the growing Soviet practice of making full use of these facilities and to get its fleet fully acquainted with them.

There is every reason to believe that the Soviets are adapting port installations to their specific needs for times to come. They already have become the dominating naval factor in Egyptian waters, with all the strategic and political implications inherent in this development.

The appearance of Soviet bombers is an entirely new feature in this strategy. Defence experts are convinced that this experiment is to be followed by others, to establish a well-tried strategic air link that will put an entirely new gloss on Soviet penetration of the Middle East.

Closely connected with the move is the inevitable adaptation of air bases in area for the Soviet planes and their operations.

To spare Arab sensitivity, they—like the naval stations—are not featured as formal Soviet air bases. But this is what they amount to in practice.

The move is all the more significant as it coincides with the Soviet Union's virtual takeover of the training, development, and re-equipping of Egypt's forces. The Soviets also are keeping a watchful eye on the Egyptian command, amounting to a considerable degree of control over it.

All in all, it appears Mos-

Housing Parley

Ottawa Help: Mostly Ideas

CP, from Ottawa

The federal government has some ideas but little new money to share with the provinces at next week's housing conference.

Few provinces are prepared for comprehensive action in housing and the federal schemes will be offered as a possible basis for joint planning.

The three-day open conference is likely to mull over alternative ways of co-operating in public housing, urban renewal and development and land assembly projects.

Labor Minister Nicholson, the federal cabinet minister who looks after housing affairs, is expected to lay down a four-point program for discussion.

It offers:

- Aid toward construction of new communities within urban planning regions.

- Increased help for comprehensive planning of urban regions, including transportation corridors and open space for recreation.

- Provisions to integrate housing projects in the anti-poverty program in special areas.

- An outline of a program for persons too rich for public housing but too poor for National Housing Act loans, now running at 8 1/2 per cent.

While several provinces indicate they will bring substantial proposals here, only Ontario would be in position to act quickly on the federal program.

The three-year-old Ontario Housing Corp. has borrowed more than 90 per cent of all federal money allocated for public housing since early 1965, although the same cost-sharing formulas are open to all provinces.

OHC Chairman E. E. Clow says the corporation will start more public housing units this year than all provinces built in the 15 years before it was formed.

British Columbia representatives come to the conference with an undisclosed program termed by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell "a new departure in co-operative federalism."

Ottawa sources say B.C. has in mind a housing authority similar in style to OHC that would draw up regional programs for the province.

It would be geared to take care of federal loans and subsidies for land assembly, urban renewal and public housing.

B.C. government officials have worked out their ideas closely with Mr. Nicholson, who represents Vancouver Centre in the Commons.

Other provinces, including Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Alberta have said explicitly that they are looking for additional federal assistance for either public or private housing or both.

Nauru Free Next Month

Tiny Island To Slip Yoke

UPI, from Canberra

At the stroke of midnight on Jan. 31, 1968, a tiny Pacific island named Nauru will become the smallest and richest independent nation in the world.

Proud natives will haul down the flag of Australia for the last time and run up a new flag proclaiming the coral dot in the vastness of the Pacific free and sovereign forever more.

Independence Day on Nauru will climax a long struggle by people yearning for freedom from the yoke of those who have exploited the valuable deposits of phosphate buried in the island soil.

Nauru has one of the world's richest deposits of phosphate—a commodity much in demand for use in the production of fertilizer.

Nauru is 2,250 miles northeast of Sydney, 30 miles south of the equator and 200 miles from its nearest Pacific neighbor. About 3,000 people inhabit its 5,263 acres.

Its story began in 1798 when Capt. John Fearn of Britain discovered the island, and named it "Pleasant Spot". For almost 100 years the island was a happy port for whaling men and wayfarers as they plied the Pacific.

In 1900, German colonialists discovered phosphate on Nauru and foreign firms soon began mining operations—paying the people of Nauru a half penny for every ton of the stuff they pulled out of the ground.

After the First World War, Britain received a mandate for Nauru under terms of the Versailles peace treaty.

Nauru was producing phosphate at the rate of 1,000,000 tons a year, and by 1939 the royalty for the people of Nauru rose to seven cents a ton.

Things were looking up for Nauru when the Second World War engulfed the Pacific. The Japanese conquered Nauru in 1942, raped the island and sent its 1,100 inhabitants to concentration camps on Truk in the Caroline Islands.

The natives returned to the island at war's end but only 730 were left to make the voyage back. Nauru became a trust territory of the United Nations administered by Australia.

The leader of the Nauruans, Chief Hammer de Roburt, started pressing for higher phosphate royalties when production began reaching its prewar peak and he finally demanded independence. The chief took his case to Canberra and hired public relations experts to help him.

Royalties were increased, rising eventually to $12 a ton, and in 1966 the United Nations General Assembly voted to grant independence to Nauru on Jan. 31, 1968.

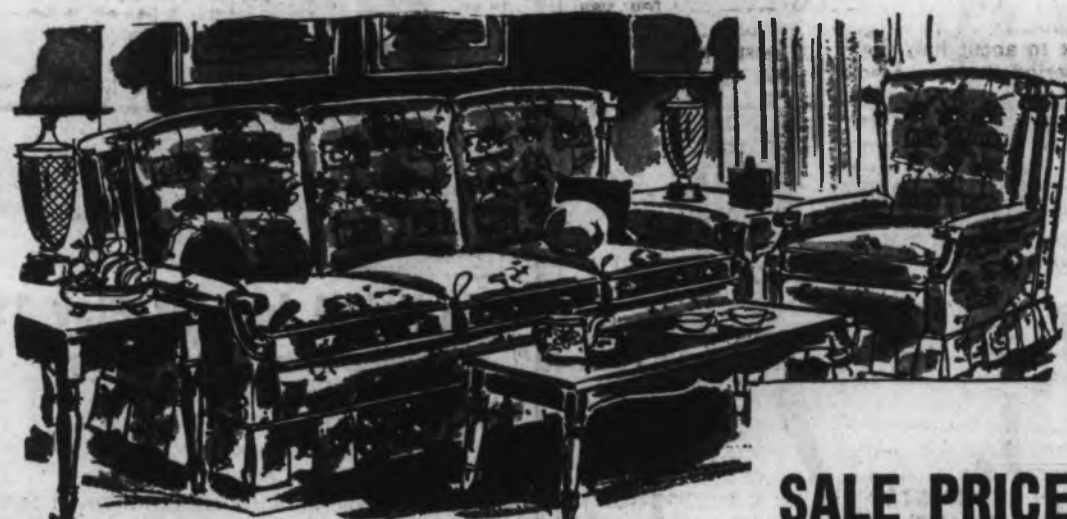

The new flag will not solve Nauru's problems. The phosphate supply is dwindling and it will probably run out in 20 years or so.

Chief Hammer de Roburt is looking ahead to that time. He plans to buy a freighter and open a Pacific trading line with Nauru as its headquarters.

He has other ideas to keep the Nauru economy alive, including the development of a fishing industry and the construction of an international airport to attract tourists to his island in the sun.

Pacific Press Talks Reach New Stalemate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks between Pacific Press Ltd. and the Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild broke off again Thursday, with the guild saying it had "no alternative but to take some other route."

Bill McLeman, executive secretary of the guild, would not say whether this meant the guild would strike.

The guild said it scaled its wage demands down "substantially" but that the company "refused to budge" from its previous offer of a 16-per-cent wage increase in a 28-month contract.

"Due to the tremendous response to our V.I.P. Special, and so that we may accommodate the many of you interested in this offer, we are extending it through Thursday, Dec. 7th."

Goldberg May Leave UN Post

Johnson Already Told Ambassador Restive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Arthur Goldberg's tenure as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations appeared Thursday to be nearing an end. Administration sources disclosed he has told President Johnson he wants to quit.

Goldberg has not, however, submitted a formal resignation and officials said there was always a possibility his departure would be delayed for some time if Johnson asked him to clear up pending matters.

Bell Tolls At Pearl

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The tolling of the bell and the playing of taps—these were among the simple ceremonies Thursday for the 26th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

Among these is the question of going back to the UN Security Council to get help in seeking peace in Vietnam. Such action, officials said Thursday, is still under consideration.

For some time Goldberg's associates have known he was becoming restive in the UN job, where he did not find the latitude he had expected for his negotiating skills.

Although the White House has not formally confirmed or denied reports of Goldberg's wish to leave, officials made no secret of the fact he had expressed such a desire.

While the President was said to sympathize with Goldberg, there was no definite word as to whether the President would agree to release him immediately.

Other sources said Goldberg indicated he took the UN job with the idea of staying only a couple of years. Johnson named him to the post in 1965. Since then, he has been the United States' chief delegate in several major crises, including the Arab-Israeli war last June.

Commons

Smoke Brings 'Fire'

OTTAWA (CP) — Temperance in the Commons external affairs committee Thursday when Wallace Nesbitt (PC-Oxford) said Canada is importing Rhodesian tobacco.

Donald S. Macdonald, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Martin, said Nesbitt should be put under oath and produce evidence for his statement.

Jack McIntosh (PC-Swift Current-Maple Creek) said the committee has no power to put any MP under oath.

EDITORIAL MAN

The witness before the committee, Clyde Sanger, a member of the editorial board of the Toronto Globe and Mail, said Martin has always stated Canada is faithfully observing the sanctions against Rhodesia, including a ban on tobacco imports.

James G. Lind (L-Middlesex East) said the tobacco in question comes from South Africa.

Sanger said that if South Africa were trans-shipping Rhodesian tobacco to Canada the experts would find out. Sanger, 39, was the Manchester Guardian correspondent in Africa from 1960 to 1965.

ANOTHER STORM

Another storm blew up when Warren Allmand (L-Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) suggested the Commonwealth might have to overthrow the white-supremacist government of Rhodesia militarily.

"Stop the war in Vietnam and start one in Rhodesia," Nesbitt commented.

Sanger said he believes an international police force will ultimately have to be sent to Rhodesia.

AGAINST IT

Marcel Lambert (PC-Edmonton West) said sanctions should not have been imposed against Rhodesia in the first place. He said Canada has a tendency to "busybody."

Veteran Tory Dies

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Retired senator Alfred J. Brooks of Sussex, N.B., died in hospital Thursday night. He was 77.

Senator Brooks, a Progressive Conservative, retired from the upper House in November because of ill health. He was summoned to the Senate Sept. 12, 1960.

Cause of death was not known. He was first elected to the House of Commons as member for Royal in 1935 and was returned in the next six elections. He became minister of veteran affairs in 1957.

Senator Brooks became government leader in the Senate in 1962.

Regina daily newspaper created its own version of flying saucer by using oil plug and fast shutter.—(CP)

Photos Questioned

Researcher Doubts UFO Spotting

REGINA (CP) — D. F. Clausen of Regina, a member of the Aerial Phenomena Research Association, said Wednesday night he doubts the authenticity of an unidentified flying object reported to have been spotted in southwest Saskatchewan last summer.

Clausen says he has examined enlargements of two photographs of the saucer-shaped object and that it bears a marked resemblance to a plug used to block oil well test holes.

Evelyn Brown, a school bus driver who lives on a farm near Shaunavon, 190 miles southwest of Regina, produced the pictures of an object hanging in the air above a field. Clausen visited her two weeks ago to ask about the sighting.

The object has a vertically ridged cone shaped superstructure and has what appears to be an upturned lip with a saw-toothed edge.

The two photographs, one taken to show the object in what appears to be level flight and the other showing it from an angle, were published Tuesday in the Swift Current Sun, a bi-weekly newspaper published at Swift Current, 70 miles north of Shaunavon.

J. B. Roe, editor and publisher of The Sun, said in an interview Wednesday he had sold publication rights in Canada to the Star Weekly magazine.

Clausen said that Mrs. Brown told him she took the pictures July 15 approximately 13 seconds apart.

The pictures were enlarged and examined closely by Clausen and an associate. They discovered the UFO was

Six Beggars Die in Cold

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Six homeless beggars have died of exposure on New Delhi streets in the first serious cold spell of winter here. Three other homeless persons were found unconscious. The temperature dropped to 46 degrees during the night, but the beggars were protected only by thin cotton sheets or torn blankets, police said.

To Beat Austerity Threat

Quebec Faces Big Squeeze

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson says his government plans to cut its spending to the minimum next year to head off threatened austerity that could be as severe as that now affecting Britain.

He told businessmen of the St. Maurice Valley region Wednesday night that he will call a meeting next week of representatives of all organizations involved in public spending, from school boards to hospital associations and unions, to keep budgets to the minimum.

The businessmen had urged Mr. Johnson to spend $75,000,000 in their area in road-building during the next five years.

"Unless we learn to discipline ourselves, our province and our country are heading for a situation comparable to that of Great Britain," he replied.

One of his main concerns, the premier said, was contract negotiations with unions representing 40,000 government employees scheduled to begin next year. He said he was also concerned with the mounting cost of education and suggested some of the spending was out of line, although education would continue to be a top priority item.

"Some of these people will have to be shown that money does not grow on trees. Some will have to stop acting as if we are multi-millionaires."

Bennett Pitch:

It's Team Spirit That Helps B.C.

Premier Bennett said Thursday provincial premiers who personally attend federal-provincial conferences like next week's Ottawa talks on the Canadian housing crisis don't know how to play a team game.

"Our government is a team and always has been," Mr. Bennett said, commenting on a report that premiers of all nine other provinces would attend but B.C. was being represented by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Mr. Bennett said the minister is in charge of housing in the province and is therefore the man best able to represent B.C. at the conference.

"If every other premier feels he can pitch the ball, catch it and field it all by himself, then no wonder they're in chaos. We build a strong team, and that's why we're such an efficient government."

Schools Helped by B.C.

the B.C. School Districts' Capital Financing Authority to borrow the $15,000,000.

The Crown authority was established in 1963 to centralize borrowing for B.C. school districts and permit borrowing at uniform rates. The proceeds of the cabinet-authorized bond issues are used to buy bonds of school districts.

Its borrowings are guaranteed by the government and repaid on a formula that provides an average 50 per cent provincial contribution for the province as a whole.

The order authorizing the borrowing didn't say where the money would be raised. However, Premier Bennett said earlier no Crown agency would go into the money market during the current period of inflated interest rates.

Rather than halt essential school projects, however, the premier said, the government would finance necessary bond issues out of pension funds under his control.

In Paris

Fire Hits Time-Life, Two Dead

PARIS (UPI)—Fire Thursday swept the European headquarters of Time and Life Inc., killing at least one French employee.

The blaze destroyed the top three floors of the eight-storey $6 million marble and glass structure which also houses Radio Canada, just off the famed Champs Elysees.

TWO CHILDREN

Killed was Jean De Wissocq, 35, the director of Time-Life International's public relations office, and father of two children.

Curt Prendergast, Time bureau chief in France, said the fire in the five-year-old building began as a small blaze in the mailroom, "which we tried to put out, but it spread."

"We thought we got everybody out," said Prendergast. "We just don't know how Jean was trapped inside, because everybody else went down the fire escape."

SLOW PROGRESS

The fire department was telephoned soon after the mailroom blaze began. They arrived first with one small fire truck. The first hook and ladder truck came 20 minutes later. Later the blaze became a three alarm fire.

Lower Prices for Zinc Hit Cominco Dividend

By HARRY YOUNG
 Business Editor

For the second time in succession Cominco Ltd. has announced a cut in its semi-annual dividend rate.

The giant Trail smelting firm, a subsidiary of Canadian Pacific Investments, will pay 70 cents a share in its January distribution. This compares with 80 cents last July and with 90 cents last January.

Lower prices for zinc and a slackening of the lead market are partly responsible for the second trimming of the dividend rate.

Just over 50 per cent of Cominco's 16,688,155 shares are owned by Canadian Pacific Investments, which in turn is held 80 per cent by Canadian Pacific Railway.

URANIUM VENTURE

Imperial Oil Enterprises Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Imperial Oil Ltd. has taken working options on 280 claims in the West Blind River uranium areas of Ontario.

The claims are owned by Yellowknife Bear Mines (45 per cent); Zenmac Mines and Rich Group, 22½ per cent each and L. G. Phelan and R. F. Liard, five per cent each.

Imperial is to spend a $90,000 minimum by May 1, 1968, and has options to spend $120,000 in each of the two successive years.

MORE INTEREST

If the options are exercised it will earn 40 per cent interest in the claims, which can be increased to 60 per cent on payment of another $200,000 by 1971.

Imperial has for some time been evincing interest in the development of a uranium property, thus reflecting the renewed interest in the metal of the atomic age.

Steel Prices Jump, New Probe Ordered

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — More big steel companies Thursday disregarded a new appeal from President Johnson for restraint by raising prices on types of steel used extensively in consumer products.

The Justice Department was asked to investigate the action. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., apparently acting with White House approval, said he asked the Justice Department to investigate the industry's price practices in view of the latest increases.

CONCERN SHARED
 Hart, chairman of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee, said he discussed the matter at the White House and "I know I voice a concern shared there."

"Steel has a multiplying effect on the economy which is greater than any other product," he said.

The types of steel involved in the current round of price increases — hot and cold rolled sheet and strip, galvanized and aluminum coated sheet and strip — are used extensively in the manufacture of automobiles and major household appliances.

U.S. STEEL LEADS
 The latest to join the price spiral were Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Corp., seventh and eighth ranking producers, and 14th ranked Pittsburgh Steel Co.

They fell in line with the industry's top five — U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Armco, and Inland — and Kaiser.

COMPETITION STAYS?
 The companies acted after President Johnson made a second appeal Wednesday night to practice "voluntary restraint" in the matter of price increases.

Hart indirectly warned the companies that they could sacrifice their chances of having

"If as a nation we allow ourselves to slip into a situation in which less and less is done for a dollar, we can hardly be surprised if a dollar does less and less for us," says the bank.

Stern News Chops The Pound

LONDON (UPI) — A grim warning by a top government-appointed official that Britain could be forced into a second devaluation if she fails to balance her trade in the next two years, was blamed Thursday for sending the pound reeling to its lowest level yet.

There were fears of serious repercussions abroad.

The warning came from Aubrey Jones, an expert economist and chairman of the Prices and Incomes Board set up by the Labor government to veto proposed increases as a counter to inflation.

RAILWAYMEN RETURN

Jones, a former Conservative member of Parliament, made his forecast in a luncheon speech to the American Chamber of Commerce in London Wednesday.

Within hours, the pound — which had been picking up on the tonic news of the ending of the Railway Engineers' work-to-rule — plunged to $2.41, a drop of 5.16 cent.

Threat of industrial action by labor unions still is rubbing salt in devaluation wounds.

Now Calvert is drying up the gin business.

As far as Calvert is concerned, nobody has ever made a gin dry enough for Canadian tastes.

Until now.

Our new gin is more than very dry. It's very very dry. And we're not keeping it a secret as to how we did it.

First, we went to Borneo for the tart, unripe Cubeb berry. Then we went to the parched Mediterranean for pods of St. John's bread.

These are the ingredients that make our gin so dry. And as far as we know, nobody else has ever used them before.

So try our new gin.

Not only is it very very dry, it's also very very good.

Cougars Add More Muscle

Victoria Cougars are going to be bigger and, manager Bob Reid is certain, better for the balance of the B.C. Junior Hockey League season.

The fifth-place Islanders Thursday may have made the biggest gain since the season started by the signing of three players with the size to shore up a defence which so far this season has lacked authority.

Signed to contracts and with the club when it left today for its third three-game trip through the Okanagan were defencemen Stacey Whiting and John Margetta and centre John Van Horlick.

SIX-FOOT-FIVE

Margetta, six feet, five inches tall and 210 pounds, and the 195-pound Whiting, are probably the biggest defence pair in the league and Van Horlick is an aggressive 170-pounder who will add heft up front.

Whiting, with the Kamloops Juniors last season, has been working out with the Cougars for the past two weeks and has impressed with his ability to move the puck out of the defensive zone — something the Cougars have needed.

Margetta and Van Horlick, who arrived in Victoria yesterday, have both been playing with the Williams Lake intermediate team and became available when the Williams Lake team ceased operations.

JUNIOR EXPERIENCE

Margetta, who like Whiting is in his last season of junior hockey, has had some junior experience in Calgary and, as could be expected from his height, is rated an excellent puck-checker.

Van Horlick is only 18 and could prove to be a real find with another season of junior hockey left after this season. He had a tryout with Moose Jaw Canucks of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League this season, made the club and then decided he was better off playing in his home town. He is reported to be a digger who can come up with the puck in the corners and get it back to his wingers.

All three newcomers are expected to play regularly on the weekend trip, which opens tonight in Penticton against the league-leading Broncos, continues in Vernon on Saturday and ends in Kamloops on Sunday.

Two victories would push the Cougars into contention for second place. With 11 points from 16 games, they are two points behind the fourth-place Vernon Essos, three points behind the third-place New Westminster Royals and seven points behind the second-place Kamloops Rockets.

Two More Goals

Bucyk Snaps Boston Record

Bucyk

There is just no stopping John Bucyk this season, and the Boston Bruins are stepping right along with their 32-year-old leftwinger.

Last night with another capacity Boston crowd of 13,909 fans cheering him on, Bucyk erased general manager Milt Schmidt's name from the Boston record book for the second time in week by scoring twice as the Bruins knocked off New York Rangers, 3-1, to increase their lead in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division to three points.

CATCHES HULL TOO

Bucyk's goals, his 17th and 18th of the season and his 32nd and 33rd points, tied him with Bobby Hull for the individual

Jean Ratelle brought the Rangers within one goal with a 40-foot slap shot in the seventh minute of the third period but Bucyk put it away by converting a pass from John McKenzie.

His clinching scoring shot enabled him to equal last season's total of 18 goals in just 23 games.

BELIEVEAU BACK

Montreal Canadiens didn't win in last night's other game but the difference that the return of captain Jean Beliveau made was evident in a 2-2 tie with Detroit Red Wings in Montreal.

Beliveau, out since Nov. 4 and helplessly watching as his club won three and tied three of 13 games during his absence, celebrated his return by scoring his eighth goal of the season to give Canadiens a 2-1 lead in the second period.

John Ferguson also returned to the Montreal lineup after an injury-forced absence, and the rugged winger figured in a first-period fracas which had hockey buffs scratching the record books to try and discover if it had ever happened before.

FIRST TIME EVER

Ferguson and Detroit-defence-man Gary Bergman came together with a crash in the 12th minute of play and started swinging their sticks.

Bergman was given two minor penalties, for high-sticking and slashing, but Ferguson, for what was believed to be the first time in professional hockey history, drew three two-minute penalties on the same play.

He got one for the charging which started the affair, one for high-sticking and one for slashing.

Alex Delvecchio got the Wings out in front with the only goal of the first period but rookie Mickey Redmond tied it early in the second period and Beliveau followed with his goal 72 seconds later.

But Floyd Smith got the Wings even late in the period while Montreal's Bob Rousseau was serving a penalty and the last 24 minutes produced scoreless hockey.

The tie enabled the Wings to move two points ahead of the fourth-place Rangers and within two points of the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Scottish Lads Open Tour With Victory

By DOUG YEARWOOD

Trinity College yesterday showed why it is one of the best sides in Scottish schoolboy rugby by blanking University School, 26-0, at University School.

The first United Kingdom schoolboy rugby team to visit a Commonwealth nation, Trinity College, continues its five-game B.C. tour against Brentwood College on Saturday, when it could be put to a stiffer test.

Brentwood recently won the B.C. schoolboy championship over Sir Charles Tupper of Vancouver and is undefeated in 33 matches.

A small but well-balanced and well-coached side, the visitors had the marked edge in play indicated by the score.

University School forwards held their own in the loose but were beaten in the tight, only getting the ball out four times from set scrums. And University School had nothing to cope with the speed of wingers George Burt and Ewen Kerr.

Both members of the Scottish schoolboy all-stars, Burt and Kerr continually ripped through the University line for long gains and between them scored five tries, four of them in the first half.

Burt, who romped for three tries, opened the scoring three minutes into the game with a 50-yard gallop down the right side and scored his other two tries on runs of about 40 yards.

Kerr added the other, first-half try, romping 30 yards and diving over several defenders. David Gordon kicked two conversions and Hamish Pringle one to give Trinity College an 18-0 first-half lead.

Peter Heap dribbled the ball through the middle, falling on it behind the goalposts for Trinity's fifth try early in the second half. Pringle made the convert and just before time Kerr scored his second try, sprinting down the left side.

Graham Scott of Trinity College was injured in a loose scrum about 20 minutes into the second half and had to withdraw from the game.

American Breeders Buy British Mares

NEW MARKET, England (AP) — American race horse breeders took advantage of the devaluation of the pound and purchased some highly prized mares at Tattersalls' Bloodstock Sales at Newmarket Wednesday.

Mrs. Marion duPont Scott of Montpelier Stud, Va., landed one of the biggest buys, bidding in Lord Carnarvon's mare, Ann Boleyn, for $41,580.

Ann Boleyn was sired by Tudor Minstrel and has been mated with Reko, the French triple classic winner.

Jeremy Tree's eight-year-old mare Helress, sired by Rocketella, was purchased for Charles Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J. for $34,020.

Two more mares were purchased for Michael Ford of Omaha, Neb., for $18,900 and $30,240.

A spokesman of the Anglo-Irish Agency, which acted for Ford, said the two mares will be mated with Ford's 1966 Kentucky Derby winner Kauai King, now standing at Sagamore Farm in Maryland.

Has Another Reason to Smile

Andy Heberton, shown last season during ceremonies at Memorial Arena which honored his feat of playing in 1,000 consecutive professional hockey games, had an even more memorable day yesterday. In Phoenix with Portland Buckaroos for tomorrow night's Western Hockey League game against the Roadrunners, Heberton learned that his wife, Gael, had presented him with twins—a five-pound, seven-ounce boy and a six-pound girl—in Portland's Willcox Memorial Hospital. They join a family which already includes 14-year-old Clay, 11-year-old Teresa and nine-year-old Karen.

'Disastrous Circumstances' Acknowledged by Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Billy Joe Booth, line-man with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League, was fined $25 Thursday after his lawyer entered a plea of guilty of common assault.

The charge was laid by Roy Marsh, a Vancouver medical doctor, who said Booth pushed him at a hotel Aug. 21. Dr. Marsh said the incident took place after he asked Booth to refrain from using obscene language.

Booth did not appear in court but was represented by lawyer Jake Dunlap.

Campbell Slaps Fines On Bruins, Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens have had little in common so far in this National Hockey League season.

The usually dormant Bruins have surged to first place and the former Flying Frenchmen occupy the East Division cellar.

But 28 players from both clubs have an affinity in their wallets today after NHL president Clarence Campbell hit them with fines totalling $1,675 for holding their own Boston tea party last Sunday night. Boston won the game 5-3.

A total of 139 minutes in penalties was handed out by referee Art Skov and Campbell's action came Thursday after reading reports from Skov, linesmen Walt Atanas and Claude Bechard and referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison, who was in Boston for the game.

Boston defenseman Don Awrey and Montreal defender Terry Harper each were nicked for $150. Dick Duff, Montreal left winger, was fined $100, while Jacques Laperriere of Canadiens was fined $75 for incurring a misconduct and a game misconduct in an unrelated incident later in the game.

Defenceman Laperriere was assessed his total for an outburst against a Skov decision. Coaches Toe Blake of Mont-

Bombers Want New Park

EUGENE (AP) — Eugene Bombers of the Continental Football League could end up in Portland next season if the team doesn't acquire an adequate stadium in Eugene, says Peter Murphy, Jr., president and general manager of the Bombers.

"We want to stay in Eugene," said Murphy. "I think we've got the best professional football fans in the world right here. But we don't want to go back to Bebel Park."

Bebel Park seats 4,400 for baseball and about 10,000 for football when portable bleachers are set up.

Murphy says the Bombers drew fewer fans per game this year after graduating to the CFL than they did in 1966 in the old Pacific Football League. A four-game losing streak plus rain at three of the six games was blamed.

Hatchery Facilities on View

Federal fisheries department will unveil its new artificial spawning channel and its three new rearing ponds this weekend at the Big Qualicum River flow and temperature controlled salmon spawning project.

This will be one of the best weekends to see the project in operation, officials say.

OFFICIALS AVAILABLE

Press, radio and television will be given a tour of inspection between 1 and 3 p.m. today. Visitors are welcome at any time, but senior department officials will be available Saturday to answer questions.

About 30,000 chum salmon are now on the maternity beds of the Big Qualicum with 7,000 of a possible 15,000 spawning in the new 3,400-foot-long by 40-foot-wide $175,000 channel.

More chum salmon are still entering the river.

Three rearing ponds have been built alongside the Big Qualicum at the counting fence and these will mark the federal fisheries' entry into the spring salmon hatchery field.

HATCHING UNDERWAY

Some 50,000 eggs are not being hatched in the hatchery on the river and it is expected another 100,000 spring salmon eggs will be hatched in the main river. The eggs from the hatchery and about 50,000 fry from the naturally hatched eggs with Alec Merriman

You can fish every day of the year on Vancouver Island ... even in the high winds experienced this weekend. Not every place may be fishable every day, but there is always some place where you can catch them.

Tom Alexander proved that point in Saanich Inlet Wednesday when the wind was gusting as high as 70 miles an hour. He went out in the comparatively sheltered waters of Tod Inlet and caught his limit of four winter springs weighing between five and seven pounds.

There was so much wind that Alexander at times just let his boat drift in the wind with his Tornjak plugs and Minnow-Tessers, fished without flasher and 100 feet of wire line and planer. He had on bigger fish than he landed, but he had so much difficulty manoeuvring the boat that he couldn't land them.

So there you are. If you are tough enough to brave the elements, you can catch fish.

Storms have created so much havoc this week that it is impossible to bring any kind of reliable fishing report, except to say the fish were there before the storm. The storms may have scattered them around a bit, but the scrappy winters springs will still be around.

The five to seven-inch herring are still in Tod Inlet and wherever herring turn up, the winter springs are bound to be right behind. Sidney, Oak Bay, Victoria-Esquamalt waterfront, Albert Head, Pedder Bay, Becher Bay and Sooke should all be good bets.

With the herring fishing for reduction purposes shut down, there appears to be more herring around than there has been in the past five or six years, reports Jim Gilbert.

This can only mean a good winter spring fishing year for sports fishermen ... and with good spring salmon fishing comes a side benefit.

When there are good-sized salmon around few anglers are interested in fishing grise. They think big if they can get big fish. If anglers don't bother with the grise now, they will be around to be caught as fighting coho salmon next summer ... and it all boils down to the availability of herring feed.

J. Brunt who works at Bamberton is introducing strip casting to Saanich Inlet waters and may have found the answer for those who like to use light tackle.

He has been using a light nine-foot rod, about two ounces of weight and raked minnows. He has moved from Mill Bay waters into Tod Inlet and three successive weekends he has limited out on winter springs up to 16½ pounds. He casts out and lets his bait sink nearly to the bottom and then strips it back in, sort of glorified mooching. He lets his boat sit still in areas where gulls are working and bait is showing.

Grise are still in Tod Inlet to Willis Point waters and have been taking red fish.

In Finlayson Arm the waters around Goldstream Island are still producing winter springs where grise are also being taken on green and white bucktails.

Floods and heavy rains have pretty well ruined river fishing, but some rivers have remained in good condition and others are on the mend.

Fishing ban on the Sooke River will be lifted midnight today.

Cowichan River has produced four of five steelhead in the Riverbottom and the Old Highway White Bridge area, which indicates the run is starting to come in. Quinsam and Campbell Rivers have produced a few steelhead and John Ebert landed a nine-pounder in the Quinsam Monday. The Quinsam at press time was running wild and muddy, but the controlled Campbell was still fishable.

Three trumpeter swans have been reported shot in the Gold River-Nimble area and two offenders have been apprehended. One shooter was taken on a citizen's arrest by two Campbell River hunters who saw him shoot a swan with a rifle. He was fined $250, and the two surprised hunters received $125, half the fine, for making the arrest. They hadn't counted on any bounty money. They were just mad at any man who would do such a thing as shoot one of those rarefawns.

Snow last weekend hampered hunters, but it helped hunting success where access was available. Check stations recorded 2,822 hunters, with 207 bucks, 223 does, 200 fawns, 630 total, for 22.3 per cent success on the closing weekend.

George Garada has set something of a record in Victoria Fish and Game Club hunting circles. At Saturday's annual game dinner, fish and wildlife director James Hatter presented him with the Fish and Game Club McIlwaine Big Buck Trophy for a 190½-pound buck. But this year he also shot a 17½-pound and a 150-pound buck to win all three of the club's big deer buttons.

Victoria Fish and Game Club will hold its big public event of the year this weekend with its annual Christmas Turkey Shoot at the Goldstream Clubhouse all day Saturday and Sunday, with fun for shooters and non-shooters. Everyone is welcome.

South Vancouver Island Rangers Inc. will hold its second Christmas Turkey Shoot at its Lunenburg grounds Sunday. Victoria Gun Club will hold its annual 500 Fund Christmas Shoot Dec. 16 and 17.

Colt of Year Brings Record Price

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—A British record price of $342,720 for a horse in training was paid Thursday when two-year-old colt Vaguely Noble was purchased by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Alan Franklin of Hidden Valley, Calif.

Vaguely Noble was Britain's colt of the year.

Albert Yaak of the World Wide Bloodstock Agency, representing Dr. and Mrs. Franklin, negotiated the purchase. He said the colt, to be trained by Paddy Prendergast in Ireland, will campaign mainly in France next season.

Canadian Forces Inventions Earn Millions from Abroad

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian-invented navigation computer now in military service in 10 NATO countries, the defence department said Wednesday.

Royalties from patents on such military inventions have earned the Canadian government $1,000,000 in the last 15 years from one firm alone, Computing Devices of Canada Ltd.

The $1,000,000 figure was reached Wednesday when J. F. Taylor, president of Computing Devices, presented a $9,000 cheque to retired Air Marshal Clare Annis, general manager of Canadian Patents and Development Ltd., a Crown company.

HOME AND ABROAD
At the brief ceremony, Defence Minister Cadieux said commercial application of equipment invented by personnel of his department indicates the sizable contribution made by the armed forces and federal civil servants to the development of Canadian commerce at home and abroad.

Patents on the inventions have been licensed to Computing Devices by Canadian Patents and Development Ltd. Sales by the company from these inventions now have reached more than $30,000,000 at home and overseas.

The inventions have been largely in the field of electronic navigation and scientific equipment.

JET FIGHTERS
The navigation computer now in use in the French Mirage, Italian G-91 and Canadian CF-104 fighter-bombers has been the most successful invention.

It is called the position and pointing indicator and was invented by Wing Cmdr. J. G. Wright of Ottawa in co-operation with J. S. Pearson, now with General Precision Ltd. of the U.S., J. R. B. Steele of Leigh Instruments Ltd., Canada, and J. P. Duhamel, Computing Devices.

The device integrates data from all navigation instruments within an aircraft and presents on one instrument all the information a pilot needs to navigate his plane.

Where President's Wife Hung Her Washing

East Room Waits for Linda's Date

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House East Room, where Abigail Adams used to hang out her wash, succumbed to bedlam Thursday as a horde of workers prepared it for the first wedding of a president's daughter in the executive mansion in 53 years.

Canvas and TV cable littered the great ballroom where a Vietnam-bound marine, Capt. Charles Robb, 23, will marry Lynda Bird Johnson, 23, for his bride at 4 p.m. Saturday.

BILL SIGNINGS

The East Room is often used for presidential news conferences and bill signings. The wife of John Adams, the nation's second president, used to dry her washing in the winter when it was too cold to hang clothes outside.

Upstairs, the executive mansion bulged with house guests, bridesmaids, ushers, dressmakers and family friends as the hour drew near for the first White House wedding of a president's daughter in 53 years.

Robb, 23, a White House social aide who has been courting Lynda since last spring, was saying goodbye to bachelorhood at a stag party Thursday night.

He and his buddies managed to keep secret the site for the affair. There was no indication that President Johnson planned to attend, as he did when he joined Pat Nugent and his friends at a baseball game before Nugent married the president's youngest daughter, Luci, on Aug. 6, 1966.

While Robb was disporting with his friends, Lynda was entertaining her bridesmaids at a White House party.

The erection of the wedding altar was supervised by the Rev. Canon Gerald McAllister of San Antonio, who arrived Wednesday night to oversee creation of a religious setting in the East Room and to conduct a wedding rehearsal Friday afternoon.

IN MIDDLE

The altar was placed on a platform in the middle of the room.

Lady Bird Johnson, the president's wife, was busy making sure everyone had enough to eat. She arranged for buffet lunches and dinners to be spread out in the third floor solarium so that guests could grab a bite in between their comings and goings.

Florists rushed to deck the ceremonial hall with bushets of holly, orchids and mistletoe. Carpenters began assembling the altar. Television technicians placed their Klieg lights.

The first lady's press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter, barked orders to women reporters like a top sergeant.

The White House was closed to tourists at midday to permit workmen to continue uninterrupted the difficult task of giving the room a white Christmas motif.

In New York, Pete Duchin and lyricist Edward Heyman said they had written a song especially for the wedding reception, at which Duchin's orchestra will play. It is called "It's Always Lynda."

Cong Invasion May Be Near

Red Guns Pound Marines

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy Communist shelling of U.S. marine positions along the so-called demilitarized zone between the Vietnam has re-emphasized a possibility North Vietnamese regulars will try another invasion in force on the direct route into South Vietnam.

After more than two months of relative quiet in the sector, North Vietnamese gunners lobbed 276 rounds of mixed mortar and artillery fire Wednesday, most of it apparently aimed at the marine base at Con Thien.

LONG FIGHT

Northeast of Con Thien there was a four-hour fight between elements of the 4th Marine Regiment and a North Vietnamese company estimated at about 150 men.

The shells from the heavy Communist weapons at the ground clash left seven marines dead and 77 wounded, the U.S. command said Thursday. Three North Vietnamese were reported killed.

MARINES KILLED

The command said a marine plane accidentally dropped a bomb on the edge of the U.S. positions, killing five marines and wounding two.

U.S. intelligence officers believe North Vietnam has 35,000 or 40,000 regulars poised in and north of the demilitarized zone for a possible thrust into South Vietnam.

RED PATTERN

Over the years, the Communists have followed a pattern of building up and fighting in one part of the country, then feeding away and developing a front in another area. This has served to keep Saigon-allied units moving from place to place, at times pulling them away from pacification work and other similar duties in high priority areas.

The U.S. announced 207 Americans were killed and 634 wounded in action last week, compared with 212 killed and 1,242 wounded in the previous week, Nov. 19-25.

DEATHS INCREASE

Fatilities among the other Saigon allies were up. South Vietnam reported 286 government troops were killed. The rest listed 28 dead. Spokesmen said 1,354 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops were killed last week. Communist deaths in the previous week were reported at 1,828.

U.S. Air Force C-130 transport ferried food, clothing and other supplies for 1,300 survivors of the Dak Son massacre.

Officials of Dak Son, a Montagnard hamlet near the Cambodian frontier 80 miles north of SAIGON, expressed belief the Viet Cong battalion which attacked with grenades and flame throwers Tuesday may have killed as many as 192 of the mountain tribesmen. They said 114 were known to have died in the terrorist foray.

'Americans Drink Blood'

SAIGON (Reuters) — An American general said Thursday that North Vietnamese troops fought fanatically in savage central highland battles last month because their leaders told them the Americans killed their prisoners and drank their blood.

Maj. Gen. William R. Peers, commander of the 4th Infantry Division, told reporters: "Their cadres work on them until they are fanatical, even berserk, or so it seems from the prisoners we take."

"Most of these prisoners have only been taken after being wounded."

"The cadres tell them they must not be taken prisoner because the Americans kill you and drink your blood."

The commander of a 38-member guerrilla platoon that switched to the government side Wednesday told reporters in Tam Ky that life in their village had been miserable since main-line Communist troops moved in about three years ago.

"We've had to pay high taxes and work hard with no compensation," said the commander, Tran Tuay, 40.

U.S. officials called it the largest mass defection from Viet Cong ranks in the war.

Goldberg

Cong Sought UN Trip, Goldberg Confirms

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg confirmed Thursday night that the Viet Cong approached the United States through the United Nations in September and asked permission to send representatives here on an unofficial basis.

Goldberg said the request was relayed by a member of the UN secretariat but he emphasized it was not Secretary-General Thant or anyone acting for him. Goldberg declined to identify the official.

He said the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, had made an inquiry through the UN secretariat in late September about getting visas for the visit. But later, he said, the NLF stated that it was asking "no UN status" for the representatives and that they would grant interviews to news media, and it failed to reply to a question of whether they would talk with the U.S. government.

Sidney Ending First YearNine Candidates Run For Three Positions*Christian*Freeman*Johnson*Perry*Dear*Ethier

After its first year as a town, Sidney has three candidates for mayor and six for two council seats in Saturday's municipal elections.

Incumbent Mayor Arthur Freeman, who was chairman of the village council before Sidney grew to town status, is seeking re-election to carry on his present policies.

"We are operating on a pay-as-you-go basis and we have a progressive and harmonious council," says Mr. Freeman.

Businessman Dudley Johnson wants a plan to encourage commercial growth of the town.

Another majority candidate is the former municipal clerk A. W. Sharp.

He wants to see more facilities for elderly people in the town, and also improvements to streets and sidewalks.

Council:

Former councillor Lawrence R. Christian, a furniture retailer, is a member of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, past treasurer of the Sidney United Church and a former member of the Sidney advisory planning committee.

BUSINESS TAX
He wants to see the business tax used for improvements to the town's commercial area, and feels construction of a breakwater would benefit the town.

Stanley H. Dear, 2172 Malaview Avenue feels the public should be fully informed of council's policies.

A school teacher at Claremont high school, he supports improvements to streets and roads, and promises to keep an eye on how the taxpayer's money is spent.

Another teacher, Bernard H. Ethier, 2245 James White Boulevard, is critical of the recreational facilities in Sidney for both young people and senior citizens.

ADULT EDUCATION
A businessman and director of Sansoha, he is a teacher with the adult education program. He is also a member of the Air Cadet League of Canada and teaches badminton.

William J. Larnick, 9564 North Lawn Terrace, is president of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, and past secretary and a life member of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association.

He would like to see a start made in planning a hospital for the north end of the peninsula, and was also largely responsible for launching a survey and study for the construction of a breakwater in Sidney.

Herbert H. Perry, 2340 Weiler Avenue, is assistant postmaster at the Sidney Post Office, a past officer of Sansoha and a director of the Credit Union. He is interested in Little League baseball.

SEEKS HARMONY
He says he wants to see harmony between aldermen in Esquimalt so that Sidney can start to make progress.

A retired Shell Oil Company official, Leonard T. Wadhams has lived in Sidney for 18 years.

He wants to see the mill rate kept as low as possible, but not to the point of false economy. He is opposed to public borrowing unless it is absolutely necessary.

Drainage in Sidney at this time of year, he says, becomes a problem and he wants to see some work done on storm drains. Public works expenditure should come out of general revenue, he said.

Larnick*Wadhams*Sharp*Licences*City Plans No Action

The city issues licences to tradesmen, but it has no intention of policing them.

This message will be imparted to four firms who wrote stating that dry-wall work was being done in the city by people who were not licensed by the city for that purpose.

Members of city council finance committee Thursday believed the complaint referred to individuals and crews, possibly part of contractors' work gangs, who did the work.

The dry-wall firms said such work should only be done by their organizations which were specifically licensed in that category by the city.

TRADESMAN'S SKILL
"The skill of a tradesman or the kind of work he does is not of prime importance to the city," said City Manager Dennis Young. "Reasonable steps are taken to control unlicensed contractors. The city doesn't want to take the position that certain people and only certain people are allowed to practise any trade."

Aldermen agreed. A letter to this effect will be sent.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt councils have referred similar requests to committees for study. Search has not yet dealt with the matter.

Premier Daniel JohnsonPraise Not Heaped On Bi and Bi Report

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Daniel Johnson said Thursday that adoption of recommendations of the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism would not solve all of Quebec's problems in Canada.

He told reporters he is confident Quebec and the federal government "can make some kind of an agreement" to resolve problems of power sharing between the two levels of government.

PEARSON PRAISED
Asked to comment on the commission recommendations made public Tuesday, Mr. Johnson said:

"It has lived up partly to what I had anticipated and hoped for."

He said he was among the first to commend Prime Minister Pearson for establishing the royal commission in 1963. Mr. Johnson was leader of the Opposition in the legislature at the time.

The first volume of the commission's final report recommended that Ontario and New Brunswick become officially bilingual along with Quebec and called for bilingual zones for English- and French-speaking minorities.

Mr. Johnson said these recommendations are "along the pattern we developed in Toronto" at the Confederation of Tomorrow Conference where the premier urged that French-Canadians be made to feel at home in all of Canada.

MORE TAXES SOUGHT
Asked if adoption of the recommendations would please him, Mr. Johnson replied:

"Let's say this is the ground work. It will not settle the whole problem."

Quebec is seeking a greater share of the tax revenues, plus jurisdiction over several fields now controlled by the federal government, such as family allowances and old age pensions, the premier said.

The whole range of issues would be discussed at the federal-provincial conference on the constitution scheduled for February in Ottawa. He expressed confidence in the possibility of solutions.

Locale of the third dance on Dec. 22 has not been chosen, but The Fast Flying Vestibule will be there.

Courtroom ParadeNo-Licence Outings Cost Driver $500

A 20-year-old man was fined a total of $500 when he pleaded guilty Thursday in central magistrate's court to two counts of driving while his right to obtain a licence was suspended.

Bernard Kylo, 512 Simcoe, admitted driving Sept. 30 on Grant and Nov. 10 on Johnson.

Prosecutor Cory Stolte said Kylo had never held a licence. His right to obtain a licence was suspended by the superintendent of motor vehicles in July, on medical grounds.

Magistrate William Ostler described Kylo's conduct as "most defiant and improper."

John Robertson, 2274 Cranmore, was fined $150 when he was found guilty of stealing on Nov. 14 a battery charger valued at $7.50 from Eaton's.

The Crown presented evidence that Robertson placed the charger in an inside pocket and left the store. Robertson told the court that he had the charger in his hand and never left the store.

Donald Collins, 22, of 2373 Henry, was fined $50 for consuming liquor in a public place. He pleaded guilty and court was told he drank beer in the parking lot of the Town and Country Plaza.

Rosina Lane, 429 Lampson, was fined $15 for operating a power boat at more than five miles an hour Aug. 27 on Prospect Lake. She pleaded not guilty.

Her boat was in collision with a boat operated by Anton Lamprecht, 2977 Prospect Lake Road. Mr. Lamprecht has pleaded not guilty to operating his boat in a dangerous manner and will be tried before Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Fined for careless driving: George Christensen, 772 Gladia, $40; David Cranston, 2063 Kendal, $40.

Burglary Sentence Suspended

Frederick Pritchard, 1268 Pembroke, was given a two-year suspended sentence for breaking into Marshall Wells store, 2038 Otter Point Road, Nov. 18.

Pritchard, who pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing, was sentenced Tuesday by Magistrate Eugene Murphy in Sooke court. Four rifles, 24 boxes of ammunition and some cash were stolen.

A second man similarly charged, Oliver Ottam of 1007 McCashell, has elected trial by judge and jury.

Police Discover Tons of Drugs

CAIRO (Reuters)—Egyptian police discovered about 1½ tons of hashish and half a ton of opium along the Gulf of Suez. The police, who were looking for the bodies of downed Israeli flyers, said the drugs are worth about $2,000,000.

Car Thief Fined $500

John Nelson Fleming, 21, of 163 Olive was fined $500 and placed on a $500 bond for one year Thursday when he was sentenced by Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake in the Law Courts for car theft.

Fleming changed his plea to guilty during his trial last week. He stole a car from in front of a Government Street apartment building Aug. 20.

In a way, yes. For this is a rum that cannot be easily copied. Not without Captain Morgan's treasured stocks to draw from. Thirteen fine old rums blended into one, superbly smooth and rich to the sip. But there's only one way to find out for sure. Give it a sporting chance. Fair enough?

Chateau Developer Gives Testimony

Leslie Millin of Vancouver took the stand Thursday in Victoria County Court in his own defence on three counts of fraud arising from a land development project called Chateau Victoria, a retirement dwelling complex proposed for the Esquimalt Lagoon area.

Millin's testimony consisted largely of the background of his life and his association with the Victoria project. The Crown is also seeking the extradition of Charles Beeler of San Francisco to face fraud charges.

Millin, the final defence witness, will take the stand again at 10:30 a.m. today, and will face cross-examination following completion of his testimony.

Millin said he was an ordained Baptist minister, originally from London, England. He testified he had served at the Hillside Baptist Church in North Vancouver during the time he was working on the Chateau Victoria.

He said he learned of the Chateau project through a Frank Kearney, who traded stock in Nutri-Bio, a company Millin headed, for the Chateau stock.

INTERIM LOAN
Millin said he was the one who subsequently brought John Fialle, Sanich M.L.A., into the project, because "I felt he would be a very valuable man, and would be able to give me background on the Chateau Victoria."

Interim loan from Lauretide (Finance) was to pay it," Millin said he brought Mrs. Lillian Prosviat, daughter of one of the complainants, into the project, to assist in sales to ethnic groups. Mrs. Prosviat, of a Ukrainian extraction, brought her father, Nick Shewchuk, into the project, and he put up $5,100 and 160 acres of land in Manitoba for two shares.

He said he brought the Prosviat, then of Vancouver, to Victoria to see a "view home" on the property and explain to them the physical plans.

He denied having told them the property was clear, only that his company owned the property.

SCHOLAR CONNECTION
The case is being heard by Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake, prosecuted by Lloyd McKenzie and Kenneth Murphy of Victoria, and defended by Thomas Braidwood and Stephen Tick of Vancouver.

The defence opened the morning session by calling a series of character witnesses on behalf of the Baptist minister.

Miss Eunice Peters, 643 Harbinger, said Millin's reputation for honesty and integrity was "high."

Mr. McKenzie asked her if she had heard of a process to extract gold from the sands of the Fraser River in 1959. Miss Peters said she knew about it and invested $50.

She said she discovered later that Millin was connected with the scheme.

Arthur Ridley of Vancouver said he had known Millin for 10 years. Mr. Ridley was a director of Sheridan Distributors, the firm which attempted to sell the units in Chateau Victoria.

He said Millin never said anything in his presence which did not conform with his knowledge of the project.

He told Mr. McKenzie that he invested money in the Fraser River scheme and was a director of Allied Holdings, a company formed to handle money for the development of mining properties.

FIGURE GIVEN
Mr. McKenzie read to him a Vancouver newspaper clipping which stated that Millin had raised $500,000 from Baptists across Canada for the gold scheme.

Mr. Ridley said he thought the figure was closer to $300,000. Mr. Ridley said he never got any return for his investment when it was found there was not sufficient gold in the sand to make it pay.

He said that when he and Millin discovered this, they advised a cessation of activity on the properties. All the assets, he said, were spent on the development.

NO SALE MADE
Mr. Ridley said he never sold any units in Chateau Victoria.

"We didn't want to take money from people unless the project was going ahead," Mr. Ridley said. "We were more or less surveying the possibilities and found them to be tremendous."

Rev. Walter Bennett, a Baptist minister in Vancouver, said he believed Millin to be an honest man and said Millin preached in his church when Mr. Bennett was in hospital in July.

Sooke School District

Repeat Election Bids Promise Showdowns

Sooke School District's trustee election Saturday will see two showdowns between incumbents and candidates making repeat bids for election.

In the Belmont sector there are five candidates for two vacant seats, and in the outer Milne's Landing area one newcomer is facing contesting two incumbents.

THIRD BID

Board chairman John Bartanus, who has served six years, and two-year trustee Archie Wickheim are seeking re-election in Milne's Landing. They are opposed by Claude MacDonald, making his third bid for election.

Exactly the same choice faced voters in Milne's Landing area two years ago, when Bartanus and Wickheim defeated MacDonald.

REGIONAL SCHOOL

Mr. Bartanus, 40, of West Coast Road, is a logger who is pressing for a regional vocational school.

He also favors more public use of schools and says he intends to keep the public informed on school board affairs.

Mr. Wickheim, a farmer also noted for holding the world long-jumping championship, was elected in 1965. He lives at 5908 Blythwood.

COMMUNITY GROWTH

He is chairman of the board's buildings and grounds committee, and says he wants to see the schools develop as a part of the community, not as a world of their own.

Adult education should be encouraged in the schools, says Mr. Wickheim.

STEWARDSHIP MEETING

Seeking to unseat one of the incumbents is Claude MacDonald, 70, a retired accountant who lives at Seagirt Road.

Mr. MacDonald feels that the school board has not kept the public informed of school affairs. He says that the board ought to hold a public stewardship meeting at least once a year.

(Mr. MacDonald declined an invitation to have his photograph published.)

REPEAT ATTEMPTS

The Belmont election is being defended by Frederick Willway and Darvis Cook, both of them elected two years ago. Albert Canning and Frederick Boulter are repeating their 1966 attempt to join the board. A newcomer is Howard Drummond.

Fred Willway, 3151 Glen Lake

Wickheim

Road, was a principal of district schools from 1944 until his retirement in 1963. He is treasurer of the Lunenburg Fair.

FOR YOUTH

Mr. Willway's platform: "If it is good for the youth and good educationally, then I am for it."

Darvis Cook, 1076 Jenkins, is a plywood mill employee with a family and two children.

His prime interest is the physical operation of the district, not educational theory. He was behind the district's new film library and wants to upgrade school grounds in the near future.

Albert Canning, 3340 Wickheim, is a chemistry instructor at CFB Esquimalt.

He wants kindergartens throughout the district right away, plus an emphasis on technical and vocational training.

Special attention should be paid to both slow and fast learners, he feels.

PROTEST RESIGNATION

Frederick Boulter, of 808 Brock, is a shipwright. He spent more than five years on the board before resigning in 1965 in protest against alleged harassment of trustees by municipal officials. He unsuccessfully sought re-election a year ago.

Mr. Boulter's interest is in keeping the public informed about school board activities. He also says he will invest his $500 annual trustee salary in a scholarship for university students studying recreation.

LIBRARY WORK

In his previous trustee experience he worked for libraries, transportation for retarded children and supported building referendums, says Mr. Boulter. Howard Drummond, of 2778 Sooke Road, is a safety officer for the department of national defence.

EFFICIENCY AID

He says he will work toward a more efficient administration, including greater use of school facilities by the community. Schools should be used more hours per day, he feels.

A regional vocational school and kindergartens are necessary, says Mr. Drummond.

B.C. Pollution Paper Topic

J. C. Garnett, Victoria's city engineer, will give one of the three papers at the convention of the British Columbia Association of Professional Engineers here today and Saturday.

Mr. Garnett's topic is, The Place of Pollution Control in the Development of British Columbia. Consulting engineers John Graeme of Victoria and W. H. Ralston of Vancouver will join him in a discussion of the paper Friday afternoon.

About 170 delegates are expected to attend the meeting at the Empress.

N. D. Lea, a Vancouver consulting engineer, will deliver a paper on transportation. Panelists on that topic include H. T. Misard, deputy minister of highways, and A. B. Sanderson, a consulting engineer from Victoria.

Saturday's program features a luncheon address by Dean R. R. Jeffels of the University of Victoria.

Mike Chornoby of the winners and P. Griffin of St. Louis College led scoring, each getting 14 points.

NEW YORK (AP) — A merger agreement between the rival National Professional Soccer League and the United Soccer Association has been effected but many details remain to be worked out, Dick Walsh, commissioner of the USA, announced Thursday.

Included, he added, were negotiations for recognition of NPSL teams by governing bodies of the sport, the United States Soccer Football Association, the Canadian Soccer Football Association and the Federation International de Football Association.

Walsh said the merged league will operate with separate United and National divisions, and that substantial interdivision play is planned.

The USA has 12 teams and the NPSL has 11, including Boston, which is scheduled to begin operations next season. Six cities have teams in both leagues. The San Francisco team of the USA has merged with Vancouver of the same circuit, Walsh explained. He added that final decisions on the other two-team cities—Boston, New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and Toronto—are expected shortly.

Labor Men Spurn LBJ Plea

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders spurned Thursday President Johnson's plea to restrain big wage demands unless Congress imposes "equality of sacrifice" through wartime controls on prices, profits, dividends, business executive salaries and rents, as well as wages.

"We have always said we are ready to accept equality of sacrifice," said a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany. He opened the 14,000 member labor federation's convention in an atmosphere of strong political support for Johnson.

LEFT COLD

But Johnson's plea Wednesday night for wage and price restraint from business and labor left the labor chiefs cold.

"We'll be no part of putting the total burden on the backs of workers," said President Roy Sienkiewicz of the International Association of Machinists.

Atlantic Raked By Storm

NEW YORK (AP) — A North Atlantic storm stretching over a wide area 250 miles off the east coast, reaching from Nova Scotia to Florida, was causing difficulties for a number of ships Thursday.

The U.S. Coast Guard said effects of the storm were being felt as far away as South America.

Winds near the centre of the storm were reported up to 40 knots, and 40- to 60-foot seas were lashing ships caught in the storm area.

The Spanish freighter Nido lost part of her bridge, had one lifeboat smashed and another damaged, the coast guard said. Her radio was also damaged by salt water.

A coast guard cutter, the Castle Rock, went to the Nido's assistance at Ocean Station Echo, about 1,500 miles east-southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., and made repairs on the radio. The Nido was en route from Norfolk, Va., to Corubion, Spain.

whose union smashed the last White House attempt to hold down wage increases in last year's six-week airlines strike.

ON PROFITS

"When they get restraint on profits, dividends and executive salaries they'll find the trade union movement in the vanguard of restraint," Sienkiewicz said in an interview.

Meany, while withholding comment on Johnson's plea for restraint, has previously said the AFL-CIO will support the president if he finds it necessary to ask for across-the-board economic controls from Congress because of Vietnam war pressures on the economy.

PRICE PLEA

Johnson, speaking to the business council in Washington, urged price restraint to keep the U.S. dollar sound.

"I intend to urge labor to restrain its demands for excessive wage increases," Johnson said.

Johnson's last effort to hold wage increases to 3.2 per cent annually failed after the Machinists, in the airlines settlement, set a five-per-cent wage-increase pattern that has continued since.

Walter Reuther's car workers' union won more than 8 per cent from Ford Motor Co. and now is negotiating with the industry's giant, General Motors Corp.

Labor leaders argued that the White House failed to put equal pressure on business to hold down price increases, which is also part of the guideline theory formulated by the president's council of economic advisers.

Fate Fools Firemen

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A fire destroyed an unoccupied mountain cabin Wednesday. The flames burned through a power line which supplies the Boulder Creek volunteer fire station with the following results:

- The siren used to summon the firemen wouldn't work, so they had to be called to the station by telephone.
- The electrically operated station doors wouldn't budge, so the 10 firemen had to dismount from their truck, unhook the doors and muscle them aside.
- The volunteers arrived at the cabin in time to wet down the ashes.

Russian Blast In Pacific Unconfirmed

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud told the Commons Thursday he has been unable to confirm a report that the U.S.S.R. has touched off recent explosions in the North Pacific Ocean.

He was replying to Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) who has been seeking details of the alleged explosions.

Robichaud said he had checked with the international commission that oversees the North Pacific fishery and the commission was not aware of any explosions.

Barnett then asked whether any measures are being taken to assist Pacific herring fishermen, in the wake of the recent closing of that fishery for conservation purposes.

The minister said his department is initiating a special program to assist in dogfish production and marketing. This would provide an alternate catch for West Coast fishermen while the herring ban remains in effect.

U.S., Moscow Open Fish-Pact Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened a formal review Thursday of two fishing agreements covering waters off Alaska and the Pacific Northwest.

An announcement said the delegations will review the operations of the agreements in the light of existing problems and new developments in the fisheries of the northeastern Pacific. Depending on their findings, the delegations may recommend modification of the agreements.

Quebec To Hold 'Brains'

MONTREAL (CP) — Hydro-Quebec will build a $28,000,000 research institute within the next decade to turn the tide of the "brain drain" in the field of electrical technology, the general director of the corporation announced Wednesday.

At the same time the corporation would reduce dependence on foreign capital and cut investments in some other areas.

R. A. Boyd told a service club that technological dependence resulting from a steady outflow of the ablest scientists from a country can be a greater disaster than any other form of colonialism.

THREE BRANCHES
The projected institute would have three main branches — heavy power, high voltage and general laboratories.

Boyd said Hydro officials do not foresee any difficulty in finding the necessary research staff "because we will have testing and research facilities which do not exist anywhere else in the world."

It would take three to five years to build and equip the proposed institute.

Russia Limits Atlantic Fishing

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to restrict its fishing along the Atlantic coast of the United States south of Cape Cod, Mass., where U.S. fishing interests have been hurt by large Soviet catches in recent years.

Good Grief! Lucy Marrying

TORONTO (CP) — Good grief! Schroeder and Lucy are really going to marry.

In the musical comedy, You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, based on the Peanuts comic strip, Boni Enten plays Lucy and Gene Scandur the piano-playing Schroeder.

Every night, she leans across the piano at The Playhouse and asks: "What do you think if some day we should get married?"

In the show, Beethoven-loving Schroeder ignores her. But not in real life.

Miss Enten, 21, and Scandur, 20, announced Wednesday they will be married in New York City Tuesday, Dec. 26.

Charlie Brown is to blame, of course.

Safe Theft Sad Story

FREEMONT, B.C. (AP)—A safe in the Bankers Mutual Life Insurance Co. building was battered open with a sledge Wednesday night, releasing a charge of tear gas. Investigators found a note, apparently typed by the burglar, who took $185 cash from the safe. It read: "I cried a tear over you."

Betting Bail Halved

CALGARY (CP) — Bail has been cut in half for most of the 17 persons accused of conspiring to book bets illegally. Mr. Justice W. J. C. Kirby Wednesday allowed the application of Milt Harradence of Calgary, counsel for 16 of those charged. The Alberta Supreme Court order reduced to $10,000 from $20,000 the bail set in police court for Patrick Perry of Toronto. All those for whom bail had been set at $10,000 had the amount reduced to $5,000 with the exception of Jeremiah Katz of Winnipeg, for whom the reduction was to $7,000. The $5,000 bail set for three men was left unchanged. All 17 have been remanded to Jan. 17 for preliminary hearing. The men were picked up in six cities last week and brought to Calgary.

Churches

Divorce Bill Rapped

OTTAWA (CP) — The divorce bill now before Parliament doesn't go far enough in encouraging and supporting stronger marriages and family life, six churches said in a press release Thursday. The release was issued by representatives of the United, Anglican, Lutheran, Mennonite, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic churches. It said all six churches are also disappointed that "present adversary husband Vs. wife or vice versa divorce procedures" are being retained. The bill introduced Monday widens the grounds for divorce in Canada, including the marriage breakdown concept as a new one, but requires proof in court. The release noted with "grateful recognition" new provisions to encourage lawyers and judges to seek reconciliation in divorce cases. Recognition of the right of wives to take legal action in the province of their own domicile also was welcomed, as well as assurance of adequate provision for support of children.

Mounties Dislike Airports

OTTAWA (CP) — Mounties are quitting the RCMP because of "boring and frustrating" traffic duties at international airports, Robert Muir (P.C.—Cape Breton North and Victoria) said in the Commons Thursday. He asked Solicitor-General Pennell to consider relieving the RCMP of such duties. Mr. Pennell said young Mounties are posted to airport traffic duties as part of their training. Mr. Muir replied that some are kept on these jobs so long that they ask for their release from the force.

Oil Tanker Works Free

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—An oil tanker grounded in the stormy mouth of the Columbia River early Thursday, but later worked herself free and headed into port. Before she did, coast guard helicopters had plucked 11 sailors from her wave-swept decks. The 512-foot David E. Day, carrying 150,000 barrels of gasoline, diesel oil and fuel oil, went aground about 12:30 a.m., 1,000 yards off Cape Disappointment light on the Washington side of the river channel. While the rescue moved slowly through the night the ship got out an anchor and with her engines still working, managed to swing her bow into the sea.

At Popular BazaarWedding Gowns and Gold Stars Raise Money for Hospital Beds

There were a lot of cheerful complaints about tired feet Thursday from members of the Gorge Road Hospital Women's Auxiliary. This was hardly surprising as most had arrived before nine o'clock in the morning to set up stalls for the annual bazaar.

And once the crowds began to arrive there wasn't even a minute to change to flat heels for comfort.

"But it's well worth it, and we wouldn't give it up for anything," they agreed.

Financially, the bazaar is very much worth while, for proceeds amounting to over $1,400 will be used to buy more hospital beds, which are badly needed but cost between $200 and $300 each.

Customers arriving in the afternoon found the well-stocked home cooking stall convened by Mrs. W. K. Hardy, Mrs. C. T. Hammon and Mrs. R. Simm reduced to two jars of pickles.

There were still several people walking around with beautiful large gold stars, which would have saved a lot of trouble for home decorating at Christmas, but Mrs. R. Lewis and Mrs. W. Green at the Christmas gift stall, had sold out of these too.

On the other hand there were still attractive gifts left and the toy stall, convened by Mrs. E. Ash, Mrs. A. Peddesden and Mrs. A. Mawer still had a few enchanted stuffed toys, like Rabbit (definitely a friend of Winnie the Pooh) in his knitted Sunday suit, and an eccentric mouse straight out of a Burgess book.

Other items for sale ranged from wedding dresses to aprons, and there was a splendid selection of earrings at the bargain basement price of five cents a pair!

Auxiliary president Mrs. E. R. Owen received guests at the door, and tea tickets were sold by Mrs. G. F. Hilliard. Members of the executive convened the bazaar.

Others in charge of stalls were Mrs. F. Harvey and Mrs. V. Mawer, sewing; Mrs. C. Douglas and Mrs. H. Jackson, candy; Mrs. G. McKeown, Mrs. B. Wiper, Mrs. M. Gibson and Mrs. J. McGraw, white elephant; Mrs. C. Coleman, hat bar; Mrs. B. Shattock, jewelry. Mrs. S. Smethurst was in charge of the tombola, and raffle tickets were sold by Mrs. A. G. Hamilton, Mrs. W. W.

McGregor, Mrs. L. Martin, Mrs. P. L. Bonnell and Mrs. G. Gillespie. Mrs. A. Mawer and Mrs. W. Green were in charge of decorations.

In charge of tea and refreshments were Mrs. H. T. Shemilt, Mrs. R. W. Clarke, Mrs. C. L. Read, Mrs. G. Callan, Mrs. A. L. Campbell, Mrs. A. Harley and Mrs. R. G. Alken. Serviteurs were Mrs. T. G. Dalsell, Mrs. T. E. Pagdin, Mrs. J. F. Christian, Mrs. J. Cook and Mrs. J. B. West.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A woman wrote a while back and wanted to know where all the eligible men were hiding.

I am a widower who is not hiding. As a matter of fact, I have been actively looking for a woman to marry.

Here is what I have found.

(1) A self-effacing martyr who wanted nothing for herself — only a stern disciplinarian who could "do something" with her two unruly brats.

(2) A charming, beautiful, well-educated widow who gloried in the fact that her first husband had never seen her naked, and by gum, her second husband wouldn't either.

Next I tried computer matching. Of the 11 prospects, one tried to convert me to her religion, a second wanted to use me to regain custody of her children, a third thought she was a Saint, and so on.

Recently I was urged to try nudism, since the people in the camps are so "real and friendly". Well, I did try it. Result: Zero. Nudism I can take or leave alone, but the women I met in the nudist camp were crazy over bingo, duplicate bridge and grade B movies.

Hereafter, Ann, I'll be "hiding" at the symphony, the theatre, lectures, professional meetings, art galleries and the bookstores. If you see me call me — MR. SEARCHING.

Dear Mr. Nobody: Can you say you haven't tried. In fact, maybe you've tried too hard. Why don't you relax, keep your shirt on and let some nice woman find YOU.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter, Amy, is three years old. There are several children in this neighborhood and during the summer months they all play in our backyard, which is fenced in.

Now that winter is here the children play in the house. They make so much noise I always ask them to close the door. Yesterday I heard Amy say, "Let's play doctor". She was in the room with a 4-year-old girl and a 9-year-old boy. I immediately went in and suggested that they come into the kitchen and help me bake cookies.

Now that I know what they are up to, I am petrified to leave them alone.

Please tell me what to do!

FRANTIC IN CALIFORNIA

Dear Frantic: What ARE they up to? Let me in on it. All kids play doctor and there's nothing wrong with it.

In the future make sure the door is open (no mother ever died from noise) and poke your head in periodically to make sure nobody "operates."

I do feel however, that a 9-year-old boy is too old to be playing with a 3-year-old girl. Pretty soon he'll be eligible for medical school. Suggest to his mother that he find playmates his own age.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband works with a man who lives near us. His wife and I are friends and we go out together about once a week. We never go in their car, always it's ours. This means my husband is stuck for the gas and parking costs. The stock phrase is, "Let's use your chariot. It's nicer." Well, it IS nicer, but I don't think it's fair. How far can we get on an alternating basis without looking cheap?

TIED OF IT

Dear Tied: The next time you go out together your husband should say, "Let's go in your chariot for a change. I'm tired of doing all the driving." From then on, alternate.

Former Victorian
Wed in Calgary

Victoria shared interest with Calgary in the recent ceremony uniting in marriage Darlene Mitchell and Mr. William Munroe.

Rev. Rodney Andrews officiated at the wedding in the Cathedral Church of the Redeemer, Calgary, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mitchell, Calgary, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Munroe, Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an exquisite sheath style gown in heavy satin featuring overlay of fine lace appliqued with organza daisies, and a full train in satin fell from the back yoke. Her bridal veil was appliqued with daisies and she carried a corsage of Talsman roses on a white Bible.

Miss Sherry Stables of Calgary as maid of honor was in a burnt orange colored dress and bridesmaids, the Misses Elizabeth Marles and Betty Stefura were in orange ice colored gowns.

The little flower girl, Miss Cathy Bacchus of Vancouver, was in aquamarine.

Mr. Denis Stevenson of Victoria was best man and ushering were Mr. Gordon Munroe, Victoria, and Mr. Barry Northfield, Calgary.

Mr. Robert Bacchus of Vancouver proposed the toast to the bride at the reception in the Calgary Petroleum Club.

For travelling on honeymoon to California the new Mrs. Munroe wore a teal blue suit and black accessories.

The newlyweds now are making their home at Williams Lake, B.C.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Right from the start some events seem to go over with a bang while others never seem to get off the ground. In the first category is the Poinsetta Ball put on by the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery.

This ball has been a sellout practically since the very first.

There's never any need to advertise as the tickets are all spoken for early.

This year is no exception and 130 couples will be out Saturday evening for the gala affair which is held at the Gallery.

This year it was decided not to have any pre-dance cocktail parties in private homes. Instead there would be one large one at the Gallery. But the civic elections have put the kibosh on that idea.

So there will be a few private parties but dinner is still being served at 8 sharp and members are hoping too many won't go without their supper.

It is always a moot point whether the members and their husbands who turn out (and that is practically everyone) for the decorating party have more fun than they do at the actual ball.

Anyway they'll all be at the Gallery this evening laden with greenery, poinsettias, etc., to have an evening of fun.

Something new this year will be the wall murals depicting Christmas scenes. Adele Fahey and Joan Reid have been in charge of this effort.

Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Alcorn are having a party before the ball tomorrow night and so are the A. R. Alexanders, Dave and Jean Smith, Bill and Adele Fahey, George and Jackie Fayad, Robin and Sylvia Skelton, the F. H. Hawkins, Don and Alma Telford, Alan and Sandra Hoey and Stewart and Kay Cumberland.

A Stocking Affair
I doubt that there are many of us who haven't done a little fussing about the fragility of nylon stockings.

But I've been told by an expert that we women are really to blame. At least, mostly.

It all started when Eileen Leary told her top, literally, in an article in the Colonist a short time ago.

Eileen questioned why "nylon parachutes didn't run, tear or shred and that stockings didn't go beyond a strong stare."

She also said she didn't see much difference in the length a stocking would last in relation to price. Supermarket and drug stores, lingerie shops, department stores and prices ranging from 39 cents to $1.50. Another question was why some stockings develop holes and gashes and others just run.

Eileen also took a crack at what she called a new gimmick in the hosiery business referring to the firm who made the offer "if one stocking out of a three-pair box went within 21 days the firm would make good with one new pair."

Shortly after this article appeared I received a phone call from Stan Coburn, a representative of a name-brand hosiery firm.

And he wasn't very pleased. He asked if we bought ALL our lingerie at drug stores and supermarkets. And if we bought a $3.49 pair would we expect it to come apart at the seams faster than a more expensive one. And that to him the article was completely unfair.

So I invited him up to the office to tell his side of the story.

Stan was very quick to take up the offer and appeared armed with hosiery samples and literature.

Carelessness and improper fit were his main defence.

When I managed to interject that "when nylons first came on the market they lasted a lot longer than they do today," he came back sharply "and you women wouldn't wear them." Those early-day nylons were 51 denier and those of today are 15 denier. Denier is the thickness of the thread.

"If women would wear the proper weight stockings for the time of day we would be much happier," Stan said.

"But they won't wear anything but what we call evening sheer and that is a very fragile stocking."

Women should not only wear a service weight hose for daytime, but they should have the proper fitting. What other garment will you wear just pick up, pay for, and expect it to fit when she gets home?

There are three lengths to Canadian stockings and this is very important, too. Gartering beyond the waist is also asking for trouble, he went on.

If you can't get a stocking that fits like a skin and looks like a cosmetic then the canteen is for you, the expert says. The canteen stockings have been improved and only stretch one way now so that a perfect fit is guaranteed.

Our carelessness in taking care of stockings come in for some comment. How many of you cover your hands with even an old pair of cotton gloves? he asked. The slightest hangnail or rough spot on the hands is likely to catch these sheer stockings we insist on wearing. As nylon cannot absorb when we wash stockings, the rinsing is three times as important as the washing, he says. And that goes for all nylon lingerie.

And in answer to Eileen,

Stan Coburn admits that a higher priced stocking can run as quickly, even from a tiny crease in your shoe, but it will never bag at the knee and ankle like the cheaper brands.

And that holes and gashes come in the mesh stocking and runs in the regular trikot knit.

And that he doesn't think Mrs. Leary would wear a stocking made from nylon parachute material. It is a woven fabric and wouldn't shape to the leg at all, except maybe as a bandage.

And that it was his firm who made the 21-day deal on a three-pair box of hosiery.

"What firm will stand behind their stocking to that extent?" he queried.

So, to sum up, it seems as if we are going to keep on spending a fabulous amount on stockings until we resign ourselves to wearing a heavier weight stocking at least part of the time.

Turkey Meets Fate At Island Bazaar

By DOREEN MORRIS

GANGES, B.C. — Late November and early December is a busy time on Salt Spring Island with many organizations holding their annual Christmas Bazaars.

In spite of a damp wintry afternoon many Islanders attended the annual Christmas of SSI Anglican Women's Auxiliary (afternoon branch) held in the Parish Hall.

The ladies serving tea were grateful to two men of the Sewing and knitted wear, Mrs. Victor Jackson and Mrs. L. Horrocks; Christmas decorations, Mrs. G. H. Holmes, Mrs. R. T. Cook, and Mrs. Perry; novelties, Mrs. W. H. Saunders; holly, cut flowers, plants, and vegetables, Mrs. J. Byron and Mrs. N. A. Howland; Christmas tree with small wrapped gifts, Mrs. E. N. Harbin and Mrs. E. Ledger.

A marionette picture made and donated to the Parish, by Mr. Joe Pitts, was won by Mrs. R. Alton. Mrs. F. I. Atkins was in charge of these tickets.

Mrs. Harold Price sold tea tickets. Approximately $273 was realized.

Parish. Mr. W. M. Palmer and Mr. Victor Jackson for washing dishes. They were heard remarking of having "dishpan hands."

Retiring Queen 'Floating Slum'

LONDON (CP) — Cunard Line officials are saddened by reports that the luxury liner Queen Mary, once the pride of the Atlantic, has become a near-mutinous "floating slum", on her last voyage to California.

They had warned the new owners, the city of Long Beach, that trouble might arise on the 39-day cruise through the tropics which ends Saturday.

British newspaper reports tell of filthy conditions, rats, insects and intolerable heat aboard the 31-year-old liner, which was designed exclusively for the five-day Atlantic trip and has no air conditioning outside her public rooms, no bathrains and no large fresh-water capacity.

Many passengers had to sleep on deck as the ship left Acapulco because of 97-degree heat in their cabins. The crew of 800 were reported in near-continuous mood, ripping up a room in protest at being deprived of their swimming pool and blaming the U.S. owners for trying to do the voyage on the cheap.

"We were reluctant to have passengers on the delivery voyage for this reason, but it was a condition of sale," Cunard said.

War Crews Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy said Thursday night it is stripping 6,200 key petty officers and enlisted men from its Atlantic and Pacific fleets to staff the battleship New Jersey and meet other increased demands of the Vietnam war.

Because of the loss of the 6,200, a total of 49 ships will be held up, placed on "caretaker status" in port with as few as one-third of their crews aboard, or will operate in limited fashion with understrength crews.

Greece Sending 2,600 to Exile

ATHENS (Reuters) — Some 2,600 persons rounded up after the military coup in Greece in April will be deported to the islands of Yeros and Leros, Public Order Minister Paul Tormas said.

'I'm Really Scared'

Boy, 16, Waits for Death

PAINEVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — "Each of my cellmates came over and talked to me. They said they were going to pray for me."

The words were spoken softly Thursday by 16-year-old Fred Esherick, Jr., in the jail cell where he awaited sentencing to death in the electric chair. He was convicted of murder in the fatal stabbing of his foster father with a bayonet.

"I have never had to pronounce such a sentence," whispered Judge John Clair, who must sentence Esherick to the electric chair in accordance with Ohio law.

The judge, who slumped into a chair after listening to the verdict of the jury Wednesday night, covered his face with his hands.

"I have never..." his eyes filled with tears.

The jury of 10 men and two women found Esherick guilty of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy. That meant the judge must sentence him to death.

On May 5 Esherick, who was adopted by his parents as an infant, attacked his mother, Alona, with a bayonet when she cut him accidentally while trimming his nails. When his father came to her rescue Esherick, according to police, stabbed him in the chest. He then dumped the two in a creek. The father was dead, but the mother was alive.

The mother, who testified in the trial, was not in the courtroom when the sentence was read.

The boy cried uncontrollably when the jury foreman read the sentence.

"I'm scared. I never expected the death penalty. I hold nothing against my mother."

Assassination Plot
'True, Authentic'

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UPI) — Police Chief Melvin James said Thursday the reported plot to assassinate Arkansas Governor Winthrop Rockefeller was "valid, true and authentic," and had underworld backing.

James refused to disclose the workings of the supposed plot, but his investigation apparently involved a prisoner who has been in James' jail for the past three months.

BACK IN OEL

The prisoner, charged with burglary in connection with holdups of a soft drink bottling company and a west Texas bank, was returned to his cell by James Thursday following a trip James said was taken "out of state" presumably to Little Rock, Ark.

Rockefeller, the first Republican governor in Arkansas in almost a century, has led a recent campaign against gambling in the health spas of Hot Springs, Ark.

FOUR RAIDS

Rockefeller's state police director Lynn Davis personally conducted four of the raids in recent weeks.

Davis was jailed Tuesday for withholding information concerning the gambling raids from a grand jury, but was released Wednesday by the Arkansas Supreme Court. Davis said threats had been made on his life before as well, and that his association with the gambling raids was the only thing he could think of that would irritate anyone enough to kill him.

FROM THAT END

"The information is now in the laps of Arkansas authorities and any charges would have to be filed from that end," said James.

UCLA Showing
Heavy Drug Use

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — One out of every three UCLA students responding to a campus poll said he had smoked marijuana, and more than 7 per cent said they had sampled the hallucinatory drug LSD.

The latest unofficial tabulations from a Nov. 29-30 referendum, in which 9,973 of the university's 29,027 students voted, were announced by a spokesman for the student legislative council.

TWO ISSUES

Results on two issues which had stirred up campus demonstrations — withdrawing troops from Vietnam and closing a campus job-recruiting centre to war-related industries — were announced earlier. Both propositions were defeated.

The complete but still unofficial figures on drug usage turned up a surprisingly large number of students who said they had smoked marijuana. The response was 3,246 yes and 6,035 no.

Of the 3,246 who said they had smoked marijuana, 2,542 are undergraduates and 704 are graduate students.

About one out of 17 students polled said he had taken LSD. The response was 636 yes and 8,625 no.

Heavy majorities favored distribution of birth-control pills to co-eds and opposed increase in tuition or student fees, but results on both issues were incomplete.

X-Ray Probe Opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service is launching a study of the possibility that excessive X-ray emission from color television sets may be an industry-wide problem.

The survey was brought on by problems General Electric Co. experienced with some of its color television models.

ABOVE LIMIT — The sets were found to be leaking X-ray radiation above the limit recommended by the National Council on Radiation Protection.

The 110,000 affected sets, produced between September, 1966, and May, 1967, have been modified.

But the health service said a preliminary survey to check modified sets showed some were still emitting radiation above recommended levels.

SIDE RADIATION — The downward directed X-ray leakage from stunt regulator tubes has been effectively corrected by GE, the health service said. But 38 of 131 color TV sets tested "emitted side radiation above the standard."

The health service said it has requested the co-operation of the Electronic Industries Association in the nationwide study.

Animals as Organ Banks

'Store Hearts in Baboons'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Navy researcher reports promising results in experiments aimed at using baboons as living storage banks for hearts, kidneys and other organs to be used for transplanting into people.

The goal, Dr. Kenneth Sell of the Naval Medical Research Institute told a reporter, would be to have a ready supply of transplantable organs when needed. This would eliminate waiting for a compatible donor among persons dying in accidents or otherwise.

Sell said the experiments have so far been limited to transplanting kidneys from Rhesus monkeys into baboons. Eight such switchovers have been made in the last six months.

The unusual thing about this is that while the Rhesus monkey and the baboon are both pri-males, they are of different species—just as the baboon and man are of different species.

The monkey-to-baboon switch is intended to be a working model of a system which might someday be applicable to storing human organs in living baboons.

Sell emphasized that much work remains to be done but added:

"In some of our most recent experiments, the transplanted kidney survived as long as seven days without rejection by the tissue of the recipient. This is promising because for the first time we have real hope that, with continued research, the work will lead to a suitable method of storing whole organs of humans."

He said a key part of the research is finding the best means of suppressing the so-called "immunological response"—the tendency of the living body to reject implanted tissue or other foreign materials.

Best success so far, he said, has been with the use of radiation on the recipient baboon.

He recalled that such an epidemic occurred some years ago when kidney transplantation was new and in the headlines. A number of young surgeons in obscure hospitals attempted similar transplants and the results were unsatisfactory.

The 111 prepared were curbed then by warnings of the difficulties and perils from leaders in experimental kidney transplant surgery at surgical meetings and in technical journals. They were also put on notice they were being watched from the ethical viewpoint.

Leaders of surgery are also disturbed by "implications that surgeons across the country and around the world are lined up like runners at a starting line to race one another in snatching hearts from cadavers and planting them in living chests," the senior surgeon said.

Transplant Fears Raised

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some leaders of the surgical profession are seriously concerned that two human heart transplantations in three days may cause an epidemic of similar attempts by inexperienced doctors.

There is talk of doing something to curb such an outbreak before it can occur.

A senior surgeon who has held high office in the American College of Surgeons is among those expressing concern. For ethical reasons he has asked not to be identified further. He said he is in touch with other high-placed surgeons across the country.

Neither he nor his colleagues expressed any reservations about the first two transplants, one Sunday in South Africa, the other Wednesday in Brooklyn. He had only unstinted admiration for the South African surgeons, headed by Dr. Chris Barnard, and for Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz of Maimonides Medical Centre, Brooklyn. Both have long had worldwide reputations and both work in fully staffed and equipped hospitals.

What concerns the former official of the American College of Surgeons is a possible "epidemic of this heroically experimental surgery," by inadequately trained surgeons in inadequately equipped hospitals, prompted by the publicity attending the first two transplants.

He recalled that such an epidemic occurred some years ago when kidney transplantation was new and in the headlines. A number of young surgeons in obscure hospitals attempted similar transplants and the results were unsatisfactory.

The 111 prepared were curbed then by warnings of the difficulties and perils from leaders in experimental kidney transplant surgery at surgical meetings and in technical journals. They were also put on notice they were being watched from the ethical viewpoint.

Leaders of surgery are also disturbed by "implications that surgeons across the country and around the world are lined up like runners at a starting line to race one another in snatching hearts from cadavers and planting them in living chests," the senior surgeon said.

New-Heart Man 'Just Too Beautiful'

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Mrs. Louis Washkansky, barred from her husband's hospital room since his heart transplant Sunday, had a joyful but kissless reunion with him Thursday, and he told South Africa by radio: "I'm feeling fine."

He looks too beautiful, just too beautiful," said Mrs. Washkansky after spending four minutes with her husband.

Mrs. Washkansky, filled with excitement, donned a surgical gown and mask to enter her husband's isolation quarters in Groote Schuur Hospital.

When Mrs. Washkansky went to his bedside, she said, he reached for her arm. She said: "I was astonished by his strength."

In an interview on the South African Broadcasting Corp. radio network, Washkansky from his hospital bed praised Dr. Christian Barnard, the surgeon in charge of the operation, as "the man with the golden hands."

Thursday night a hospital spokesman said Washkansky "is still improving all the time and his condition is quite satisfactory."

"He should be home for Christmas," said one surgeon.

School Survey Finds

Several Courses Old, Dangerous

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — of its National History Project. The co-ordinator of an extensive survey into the teaching of Canadian history, social studies and civics in Canada's 10 provinces says the study has disclosed that the courses are antiquated, lacking in contemporary interest and meaning and "therefore dangerous."

A. B. Hodggets, a history teacher at Port Hope's Trinity College School and co-ordinator of the National History Project, said Thursday the findings will document to a certain extent that the crisis between English- and French-speaking Canada results from the "vast differences" in the approach to the teaching of these subjects.

Hodgets said in a statement the differences were disclosed in the textbooks used in French and English Canada, the courses of study, interviews with teachers and direct observation in the classroom and confirmed by the students themselves in essays and answers to questionnaires.

The two-year investigation, in which the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education also participated, involved sending bilingual observers to attend classes in about 250 schools in 22 major urban areas.

Questionnaires were distributed to 10,000 students and 1,400 faculty members at 14 educational institutions, and 500 teachers of history and social studies were interviewed.

Hodgets said the data obtained as being processed and a report will be issued in the spring.

Hodgets said the study is closely related to the French-English racial crisis and particularly in the work of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The survey was initiated in September, 1965, by Trinity College, a private school, as part of its own centennial celebrations.

Leading Crown Witness Makes Accused Laugh

MONTREAL (CP) — Georges Lemay burst into laughter Thursday as he listened to a key Crown witness tell the court at his trial that Lemay was nicknamed Le Pasha by those who knew him.

It was the 24th day in the witness box for burly Jacques Lajoie, 46, who already has pleaded guilty to and been sentenced for his part in a 1961 bank break-in for which Lemay, 42, is charged with burglary and conspiracy.

SENT TO JAIL

Lajoie told cross-examining defence lawyer Leo-Rene Maranda Thursday that Lemay had about six nicknames, all of them French, but roughly translated as "the leader" and "the king."

Maranda continued to question Lajoie on the witness's testimony at Lemay's preliminary hearing and at the preliminary hearing and trial of Roland Primeau, who was sentenced to 13 years in jail for his part in the $633,605 robbery.

The defence lawyer asked Lajoie if he remembered the color of the overalls Lemay wore on the night of the break-in, when Lajoie testified, he, Lemay and three other men used dynamite to blast open the bank vault from a tunnel below.

Lajoie said Lemay's overalls were black.

Maranda then read an excerpt from Lajoie's testimony at Lemay's preliminary hearing, in which Lajoie said he couldn't remember the color of the overalls, and asked the witness if he had "systematically withheld evidence" from the cross-examining lawyer at the hearing or if his memory had improved.

Lajoie said he had no comment on the union moves and allegations.

Homes, Clothing Lead Way As Consumer Index Rises

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index pulsed half a point higher in November as Canadians paid more for the roofs over their heads and the shirts on their backs.

Rents increased in every province but Prince Edward Island and in every major city.

Tenants in Western Canada were hit hardest.

With seasonal sales over clothing prices moved higher, especially for men's wear. The average increase from October in men's overcoats was more than 10 per cent.

BASED ON '49

The price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, stood at 151.5 in November, up from 150.5 in October and 145.5 in November, 1966.

The year-to-year increase in percentage terms was 3.8 per cent from last November.

After 23 consecutive monthly increases, the index had declined in September and October under the influence of seasonal price cuts in food, clothing and transportation.

But in November all sub-indexes but transportation were higher. In percentage terms clothing and recreation-reading were both up six-tenths of one per cent, food one-tenth, housing two-tenths, health and personal care three-tenths and tobacco and alcohol one-tenth.

Within the clothing sub-index, other increases occurred for men's suits, undershirts and sweaters and for women's and children's wear, footwear and piece goods.

RENT INCREASE

The rent increases for homes and apartments hit a range of five to six per cent in the West, and home ownership was more expensive due to price advances for building materials and in wage-rate increases.

Among food items, ice cream, powdered milk and processed cheese were cheaper. Bread prices were down 1.6 per cent but flour, breakfast cereal and sugar cost more.

DBS established the November index level by surveying prices on a basket of 300 goods and services late in October. The items are representative of purchases by urban families with average incomes.

OTHER INDEX

The most closely comparable index of income traces industrial wages and salaries on the basis of 1961 levels equalling 100. In September, latest available month, this index stood at 133.9, up from 125.7 a year earlier.

The increase of 6.5 per cent compares with a 3.8-per-cent increase in the consumer price index for the same period.

Murder Attempt Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Two University of Ottawa students were charged Thursday with attempted murder following the firing of a shot into another student's room Wednesday night. Charged were Denis Masson, 20, and Gabriel Bolduc, 21, both of Chicoutimi, Que. They were remanded one week.

The complaint is Jean Dandurand, 22, also a University of Ottawa student from Chicoutimi, who received a threatening letter about a week ago.

Dandurand had been sitting at his desk in his room in a house near the university when a shot was fired through his window. Police would not disclose the threatening letter, except to say the dispute involved politics.

Garden Notes

Azalea Good Mixer

By M. V. CHEENUT

My mention of azaleas in yesterday's column brings to mind the fact there is no more colorful display in the garden than a big bed chock full of these plants in full bloom. The shrubs themselves may not be very large, but their free-blooming habit and the wide range of colors available makes the azalea ideal for mass planting in any line-free garden.

Azaleas are splendid mixers with their cousins, the taller rhododendrons, either in beds, where they supply a range of colors not found ordinarily in rhodod., or in the front rank of a border of mixed shrubs. In either case, their fragrance will prove to be one of their attractions, as well as their attention-getting blaze of color. A fair-sized bed of azaleas set in the lawn is particularly pleasing, as their colors show up so well against a background of dark green turf.

If your lawn is healthy, showing plenty of the narrow-leaved varieties of grass and without any invasion of clover, chances are the soil is sufficiently acid to suit azaleas. A limy soil will almost always show some clover and a proportion of those wide-leaved, coarser meadow grasses.

The preparation of the soil isn't very complicated. Simply dig out a bed to the depth of your spade, setting the topsoil to one side. Then dig over the subsoil, mixing into it as you go about half a bushel of old manure per square yard. Tread this down firmly.

Next, replace the topsoil, mixing with it half a pallet of peat moss per square yard plus a cupful of fertilizer. Ideally, the fertilizer should be one of the acid-mix types especially formulated for acid-loving evergreens, although an ordinary flower-and-vegetable fertilizer seems to be reasonably satisfactory in the azalea bed.

The root system of an azalea is rather thin and wiry and the roots clasp the soil closely. When you buy your plants, the roots will be enclosed in a compact ball of soil and the plants must be handled gently to avoid breaking the soil mass and exposing the roots within.

Each planting hole should be wide enough to take the root ball comfortably, leaving a three-inch space all around. Make it deep enough to hold a two-inch layer of damp peat moss in the bottom and still leave four inches of soil covering the root ball. Leave the root ball intact—don't try to tease out any of the roots as you would with, say, a rose. If the root ball is enclosed in burlap, cut the binding string and make a few knife slits in the burlap, but don't try to remove it.

Fill in gradually over the root ball using a mixture of loam and damp peat moss, and stop when the job is about two-thirds completed to pour in a couple of quarts of water to settle the soil around the roots. As with other planting operations, a few drops of Dixon's Vitaxol B-1 in the water lessens the shock of transplanting and helps get the roots away to a good start. When the water drains away, complete the filling in, leaving the soil loose and dry on top without any treading or packing down.

We are particularly fortunate on Vancouver Island in that our local commercial nurseries carry what is probably the biggest and best selection of azaleas in Canada. One local catalogue lists better than 70 different about $1.50 for a seedling plant to as varieties and colors. Prices range from much as $10 for a good-sized specimen of the double-flowered Ghost hybrid.

ERMA BOMBECK Meets Little Brother

Doll Cuts Apron String

It didn't look much like a sex symbol. It was a small baby doll, no bigger than a bread box with a wrinkled face and a $19.95 price tag dangling from its arm.

The buyer told me a doll had not caused so much excitement in toy circles since Ken ran away with Barbie's best friend, Midge.

The doll is called "Little Brother" and is "anatomically correct."

Little Brother in addition to raising the eyebrows and the ire of many suburban housewives, raises another question. "Are dolls becoming too realistic?"

In the beginning, they didn't do anything but sit and stare out of their glassy eyeballs. Then the eyes began to move. So did the arms and the lips. By bending them forward they would bleat rather apologetically, "Ms. Ma." Dolls were still a lot of fun.

Designers moved one step farther. They began to add parts. First, a plumbing system whereby you feed a baby a bottle and within seconds you could be assured of a wet diaper.

Then, a string in the back of the head which, when pulled, had the rotten kid nagging constantly for something. "Where are we going?" "Comb my hair." "Where's my bottle?" "I'm hungry." "I want my Daddy." "Do you have another headache?"

The trend was set. Babies cried, belched shamelessly, talked, giggled, ate, chewed, splashed in the bath, kicked and screamed, experienced gas pains, had human hair and soft bodies. It was like having another baby around.

Said one young mother, "Either that doll is growing or I've got to get out of the house more."

When dolls could do everything but own General Motors stock, manufacturers had nowhere to go but to create new dolls. Thus, came the teenage line, which, if not "anatomically correct" made the three and a half inch bustline a real conversation piece.

With them, motherhood experienced a real lack in the head. In place of imitating mama by caring for an infant, youngsters were now playing around with an unmarried dropout with a $600 wardrobe, a steady boyfriend, a jazzy apartment house, a car and three wigs.

On the heels of the mature female, naturally followed the adult male: Captain Action, Matt Mason (astronaut), and G. I. Joe, complete this year with commands.

It is not surprising to me that "Little Brother" has made the scene. Whether you approve of his detailed anatomy or you protest his place in the toy department is not the big issue.

Just don't be surprised if your child discards any doll in favor of a bag of clothespins, an old shoe box, a few raw potatoes and a saucer. With them you can pretend and have imagination.

With a doll? What's left? What can you possibly do to them that they cannot do for themselves?

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Mrs. Chips—Petula Clark

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — It seemed like goodbye to Mr. Chips when Gewer Chapman pulled out of the Arthur Jacobs musical version for MGM. But one play's disaster is another film's good fortune. With the first for David Merrick's Miss Hart in Washington this Saturday night, its director, Vincente Minnelli, will be free to take over the new Mr. Chips, which will be rushed into production in England, Petula Clark as Mrs. Chips. The actor to play the lovable schoolmaster, played by Robert Donat in the original film, is still up in the air.

It seems that Paul McCartney has unofficially taken over the management of the Beatles. It always was thought that John was the business brain, but it's Paul. As to when and if he will marry Jane Asher, it's Jane's decision that they don't. She was telling a chum that while she and Paul are in love, she wants a normal kind of life and that is difficult as the wife of a Beatle. The same chum is sure they will get married. Oh yes, the trip for Beatle meditation in India is off. The quartet resented all the publicity.

Albert Finney, who directed himself with Liza Minnelli in Charlie Bubbles, liked the experience of directing, but next time he won't act. And next time, after his current Picasso Summer with Yvette Mimieux, he will make a film for CBS — not Universal.

Tish Sterling, with her short hairdo, is now a double for her mother, Ann Southern. Universal is pushing hard to turn Tish into a star and has big plans for her following Coogan's Bluff. The young actress is married to actor Lal Baum, they have a daughter, Heidi, and I hope she is reconciled with her mother.

Patrick O'Neal, co-starring with Walter Matthau at 20th Century-Fox in The Feminine Mistake, is adopting a second boy. He and wife Cynthia already have adopted Maximilian, all of 13 months old.

William Powell, at the ripe age of 78, is still very much around and about in Palm Springs, where he retired about two decades ago. He and his wife, "Mousie," have dined at Don the Beachcomber's almost nightly since it opened for the new season.

What do the stars do between film takes? John Wayne plays chess, which you might not expect. Humphrey Bogart was partial to the same brain game. Yul Brynner always played gin rummy when the cameras weren't turning on Villa Rides in Spain. Michael York reads Shakespeare. Sean Connery, Bob Hope and Dean Martin practice golf stances. And David Hemmings between scenes in Only When I Larf laughingly draws black and white sketches.

George Peppard is still taking home $400,000 a picture, even though there is a general decline in star salaries. But not Julie Andrews! Her price is a firm $1,250,000 against 10 per cent of the gross. It took Elizabeth Taylor almost 20 years of hard work to reach this plateau. Julie did it in less than half the time. One of those lucky accidents and I do mean Mary Poppins. Elizabeth's Reflections in a Golden Eye, and The Comedians with Richard Burton, received mixed reviews, but the customers keep coming to the box office, and have been coming in great numbers for the past decade. Miss Andrews cannot match this record. The film she made a couple of years ago for Hitchcock, laid a financial egg.

Michael Crawford is the same as most fathers when the moment of birth is close at hand. "I wanted a boy," he told me, "But now I don't care what I have." All you want is a healthy baby.

U.S. Draft

Police Kill Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-war demonstrators mounted another "stop the draft" protest Thursday—their third of the week—but police on the ground and in helicopters thwarted their moves over the five miles from the southern tip of Manhattan to midtown New York.

Trying new tactics, some 700 demonstrators split into roving bands to strike at targets from the U.S. armed forces induction centre to the United Nations to the Times Square recruiting station.

SEE ARRESTS

But they were outmanoeuvred by policemen, who arrested 300 on charges ranging from inciting to riot to disorderly conduct to parading without a permit. Arrests for the three days totalled 604.

When the protest ended after three hours, their ranks had dwindled to 50.

Protest leaders began making plans for another demonstration today.

COALITION GROUP

A spokesman for the sponsoring Stop the Draft Week Committee, described by protest leaders as a coalition of 50 anti-war groups, said the protesters would again assemble in Lower Manhattan, but at 8 a.m. instead of the 5:30 a.m. of the two previous days.

The city used 4,000 policemen to control the demonstrations Thursday, as it had Wednesday. It is estimated the demonstrations will cost the city $100,000.

POLICE ESCORT

Later Thursday, five adult anti-war demonstrators were escorted by police away from the area of St. Patrick's Cathedral, where President Johnson was attending the funeral of Francis Cardinal Spellman.

The five were about a half-block from St. Patrick's when they displayed signs protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The demonstrations here were part of a week-long series of protests planned for various parts of the U.S.

HALLWAY BITTERS

Eighty anti-war demonstrators were arrested Thursday in the Federal Building in Cincinnati when they sat in a second-floor hallway outside the induction centre.

At Indianapolis, about 30 youths peacefully picketed the army recruiting station. They said they were from Indiana University.

In New York, police had to keep the protesters separated from a group of longshoremen.

"Why I fought bums like these overseas for 3½ years," shouted one longshoreman.

Gaullists Stage Walkout

PARIS (Reuters) — French Gaullists walked out of a political conference Wednesday after a Belgian delegate said President de Gaulle is the last living minister of 17th-Century French King Louis XIV.

Gaullist delegate Michel de Grailly was booed as he left the conference of the Western European Union, attended by Christian Democratic, Liberal and Socialist parliamentarians from the six Common Market countries and Britain.

APPEAL MADE

Etienne de la Vallee Poussin, a Belgian Social Christian, appealed to the French people not to allow themselves to be isolated from the rest of Europe.

He said on Judgment Day de Gaulle might be told he had been given every gift in the hope that he would become the first great European statesman but instead had chosen "to remain the last great minister of Louis XIV."

BRITISH DID

At a press conference, the parliamentarians called for the immediate opening of negotiations on the British application to join the Common Market. They denounced what they said was de Gaulle's unilateral approach to the problem at his press conference in Paris Nov. 27.

The parliamentarians claim to speak for 80 per cent of the electorate in their seven countries.

Coho May Live In Lake Huron

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The Great Lakes Fishery Commission plans to ask Ontario and Michigan to help plant Pacific coast coho salmon in Lake Huron, Dr. J. J. Tibbles said.

A Canadian delegate to the commission, Dr. Tibbles said in an interview that coho planted in lakes Superior and Michigan by the Michigan government in 1965-66 have been thriving and attracting anglers.

Hooke ProbeFour Views Differ

EDMONTON (CP) — Four lawyers added up the evidence at a judicial inquiry Thursday — and got different answers.

All said Welfare Minister A. J. Hooke was at least imprudent about possible conflict between his public duty and private investments.

Donald Bowen, counsel for the Liberal Party, called for the legislature to disqualify Hooke from holding public office and said the minister betrayed his public trust with "an eagerness, almost a greed" to further his own ends.

INDISCRETION SHOWN

Ned Crawford, Progressive Conservative counsel, said it has been shown Hooke was indiscreet but "indiscretion added upon indiscretion does not constitute breach of duty."

Crawford said there is not enough evidence to justify an adverse finding "if, after the production of 50 witnesses, more than 450 exhibits and 5,000 pages of testimony, the case is not crystal clear."

LEGAL PRINCIPLE

"I don't think that 'where there's smoke, there's fire' has ever been adopted as a legal principle."

"He has never been able to ascertain — or else he hasn't bothered to — the difference between his position as a minister of the crown and his position as an investor."

'TOO APPROACHABLE'

And G. S. D. Wright, acting for the NDP, said Mr. Hooke was "too approachable" to people seeking their own gain.

"Mr. Hooke has sought to project the image of the home-spun politician, the jack-of-all-trades."

"W. B. Gill, counsel for former MLA Garth Turcott and New Democratic Party Leader Neil Reimer, described Hooke's career as "more stupid than shocking."

LAST SESSION

The inquiry, conducted by Mr. Justice W. J. C. Kirby, is investigating allegations made by Turcott in the last session of the legislature that Hooke used or attempted to use his public office for personal gain.

Gill told the inquiry it is "absurd" not to draw damaging conclusions "when you add up all the ventures in which Hooke involved himself."

He said there is "a pattern, whether of ignorance or greed" and an "amazing and calculated lack of prudence" in these transactions by the minister:

● The development of a residential townsite, Sherwood Park, on land Hooke owned.

● The long-standing dispute between Ideal Homes Ltd. and the City of Edmonton, and the question of Hooke's association with the company.

● A contract signed by Ideal Homes to supply lumber to an Edmonton textile plant.

● Hooke's acquisition of land in southeast Edmonton after he received information about it in his capacity of cabinet minister.

● Hooke's gift of a pony to the daughter of Dr. C. A. Allard, Edmonton surgeon and businessman, and the free lodging the minister received on two occasions in a Victoria apartment building owned by an Allard firm.

● The granting of two mortgages, "under rather tenuous security," to Hooke by Northwest Trust, another Allard company.

● The Northwest Trust purchase from Hooke of an agreement for sale "which no prudent business would have considered."

Gill said testimony at the inquiry "reminded me of opening a case of snakes in the zoo. 'You never knew what would come out and what would bite.'"

Submissions by counsel are expected to continue today. When they are finished, the inquiry will recess until Jan. 28, when it will resume to deal with similar allegations by Turcott against E. W. Harman, former provincial treasurer.

Greek Youths Sentenced

SALONIKA (AP) — A Greek military tribunal has sentenced five former members of a left-wing youth organization to prison for violating a temporary military law forbidding meetings of five or more persons. The law, imposed soon after the April 21 coup by the ruling military regime, was repealed a month after their arrest. One man received five years, the others 13 months each.

Family Gang Under Arrest

TEL AVIV (AP) — Police arrested a 14-year-old boy and said he was the mastermind behind 25 burglaries in the Upper Nazareth district. They also picked up his gang — his 43-year-old mother and his 18-year-old sister.

Treasure Finder Gets Part

SYDNEY (CP)—Alex Storm, the Louisbourg, N.S., diver who recovered treasure from a 17th century French payship, has been awarded three quarters of the treasure—the total value of which has not been determined. A Nova Scotia Supreme Court decision awarded one quarter of the treasure to five plaintiffs in a lengthy legal action.

The 51-page written report was handed down Thursday by Mr. Justice V. J. Pottier.

GOLD, SILVER
The treasure in gold and silver coins, unofficially valued at up to $1,000,000, is resting in a vault in a Sydney bank. It has been there since April, 1966, when a court order instructed the Cape Breton county sheriff to impound it until settlement of the legal wrangle.

The coins were raised from waters near Louisbourg in 1965 by Storm and two companions, Dave MacEachern and Harvey MacLeod, after discovery of the sunken French vessel Le Chameau.

CONTRACT CLAIM
The dispute arose when five plaintiffs led by Ronald Blundon of Dutch Brook, N.S., claimed they were entitled to a share of the treasure because of a contract between them and Storm. Storm claimed to have terminated the contract.

BINDING POINT
In his decision, Mr. Justice Pottier said legally the contract was binding and "Storm couldn't terminate it in the way he attempted."

However, the Supreme Court justice found the plaintiffs guilty of laches, a legal term meaning an undue delay in asserting their rights.

Cougars Add More Muscle

Victoria Cougars are going to be bigger and, manager Bob Reid is certain, better for the balance of the B.C. Junior Hockey League season.

The fifth-place Islanders Thursday may have made the biggest gain since the season started by the signing of three players with the size to shore up a defense which so far this season has lacked authority.

Signed to contracts and with the club when it left today for its third three-game trip through the Okanagan were defencemen Stacey Whiting and John Margetta and centre John Van Horlick.

SIX-FOOT-FIVE

Margetta, six feet, five inches tall and 210 pounds, and the 195-pound Whiting, are probably the biggest defence pair in the league and Van Horlick is an aggressive 170-pounder who will add heft up front.

Whiting, with the Kamloops Juniors last season, has been working out with the Cougars for the past two weeks and has impressed with his ability to move the puck out of the defensive zone—something the Cougars have needed.

Margetta and Van Horlick, who arrived in Victoria yesterday, have both been playing with the Williams Lake intermediate team and became available when the Williams Lake team ceased operations.

JUNIOR EXPERIENCE

Margetta, who like Whiting is in his last season of junior hockey, has had some junior experience in Calgary and, as could be expected from his height, is rated an excellent poke-checker.

Van Horlick is only 18 and could prove to be a real find with another season of junior hockey left after this season. He had a tryout with Moose Jaw Canucks of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League this season, made the club and then decided he was better off playing in his home town. He is reported to be a digger who can come up with the puck in the corners and get it back to his wingers.

All three newcomers are expected to play regularly on the weekend trip, which opens tonight in Penticton against the league-leading Broncos, continues in Vernon on Saturday and ends in Kamloops on Sunday.

Two victories would push the Cougars into contention for second place. With 11 points from 16 games, they are two points behind the fourth-place Vernon Essos, three points behind the third-place New Westminster Royals and seven points behind the second-place Kamloops Rockets.

Two More Goals

Bucyk

There is just no stopping John Bucyk this season, and the Boston Bruins are stepping right along with their 32-year-old leftwinger.

Last night with another capacity Boston crowd of 13,909 fans cheering him on, Bucyk erased general manager Milt Schmidt's name from the Boston record book for the second time in week by scoring twice as the Bruins knocked off New York Rangers, 3-1, to increase their lead in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division to three points.

CATCHES HULL TOO

Bucyk's goals, his 17th and 18th of the season and his 32nd and 33rd points, tied him with Bobby Hull for the individual

Jean Ratelle brought the Rangers within one goal with a 40-foot slap shot in the seventh minute of the third period but Bucyk put it away by converting a pass from John McKenzie.

His clinching scoring shot enabled him to equal last season's total of 18 goals in just 23 games.

BELIEVE BACK

Montreal Canadiens didn't win in last night's other game but the difference that the return of captain Jean Beliveau made was evident in a 2-2 tie with Detroit Red Wings in Montreal.

Beliveau, out since Nov. 4 and helplessly watching as his club won three and tied three of 13 games during his absence, celebrated his return by scoring his eighth goal of the season to give Canadiens a 2-1 lead in the second period.

John Ferguson also returned to the Montreal lineup after an injury-induced absence, and the rugged winger figured in a first-period fracas which had hockey buffs searching the record books to try and discover if it had ever happened before.

Ferguson and Detroit-defenceman Gary Bergman came together with a crash in the 12th minute of play and started swinging their sticks.

Bergman was given two minor penalties, for high-sticking and slashing, but Ferguson, for what was believed to be the first time in professional hockey history, drew three two-minute penalties on the same play. He got one for the charging which started the affair, one for high-sticking and one for slashing.

Alex Delvecchio got the Wings out in front with the only goal of the first period but rookie Mickey Redmond tied it early in the second period and Beliveau followed with his goal 72 seconds later.

But Floyd Smith got the Wings even late in the period while Montreal's Bob Rousseau was serving a penalty and the last 24 minutes produced scoreless hockey.

The tie enabled the Wings to move two points ahead of the fourth-place Rangers and within two points of the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Scottish Lads Open Tour With Victory

By DOUG YEARWOOD

Trinity College yesterday showed why it is one of the best sides in Scottish schoolboy rugby by blanking University School, 26-0, at University School.

The first United Kingdom schoolboy rugby team to visit a Commonwealth nation, Trinity College, continues its five-game B.C. tour against Brentwood College on Saturday, when it could be put to a stiffer test.

Brentwood recently won the B.C. school rugby championship over Sir Charles Tupper of Vancouver and is undefeated in 33 matches.

WELL-BALANCED TEAM

A small but well-balanced and well-coached side, the visitors had the marked edge in play indicated by the score.

University School forwards held their own in the loose but were beaten in the tight, only getting the ball out four times from set scrums. And University School had nothing to cope with the speed of wingers George Burt and Ewen Kerr.

Both members of the Scottish schoolboy all-star, Burt and Kerr continually ripped through the University line for long gains and between them scored five tries, four of them in the first half.

OPENING SCORE

Burt, who romped for three tries, opened the scoring three minutes into the game with a 50-yard gallop down the right side and scored his other two tries on runs of about 40 yards.

Kerr added the other, first-half try, romping 30 yards and diving over several defenders. David Gordon kicked two converts and Hamish Pringle one to give Trinity College an 18-0 first-half lead.

Peter Heap dribbled the ball through the middle, falling on it behind the goal-posts for Trinity's fifth try early in the second half. Pringle made the convert and just before time Kerr scored his second try, sprinting down the left side.

Graham Scott of Trinity College was injured in a loose scrum about 20 minutes into the second half and had to withdraw from the game.

TRINITY COLLEGE—Peter Kirkwood, Bob Will, Robin MacMillan, Andrew Graham, Reid Kerr, Peter Heap, Tim Fraser-Smith (captain), John Fok, Roy Leach, Chris Wilson, Ewen Kerr, Hamish Pringle, Graham Scott, George Burt, David Gordon.

Stroke Fatal

Professional golfer Francis 'Bo' Winger, 45, died in hospital at Oklahoma City Thursday a week after suffering a stroke. Winger, who turned professional in 1952, won only five tournaments in his career but had earnings of $155,000. He is survived by his wife Nita and two teenaged daughters.

Visitors Impress

All eyes are on the ball and visiting Trinity College players are closing in on it first as they did much of the game Thursday as they opened their British Columbia tour with a 26-0 win over University School.—(Jim Ryan Photo)

Rick Williamson and Bill Spotswood led the most damage for Coffee Macs by scoring 23 and 19 points, respectively, as they set a team record for the season.

Joe Stewart led Red Lions with 29 points, 16 of them scored in the first half.

George Price picked up 17 points to lead Farmers. Jordan Ellis added 16 points and Fred Gubbels scored 15 in the losing cause.

American Breeders Buy British Mares

NEW MARKET, England (AP) — American race horse breeders took advantage of the devaluation of the pound and purchased some highly prized mares at Tattersalls' Bloodstock Sales at Newmarket Wednesday.

Mrs. Marion duPont Scott of Montpelier Stud, Va., landed one of the biggest buys, bidding in Lord Carnarvon's mare, Ann Boleyn, for $41,580.

Ann Boleyn was sired by Tudor Minstrel and has been mated with Reko, the French triple classic winner.

Jeremy Tree's eight-year-old mare Heiness, sired by Rockefeller, was purchased for Charles Engelhard of Far Hills, N.J. for $34,020.

Two more mares were purchased for Michael Ford of Omaha, Neb., for $18,900 and $30,240.

A spokesman of the Anglo-Irish Agency, which acted for Ford, said the two mares will be mated with Ford's 1966 Kentucky Derby winner Kauai King, now standing at Sagamore Farm in Maryland.

Has Another Reason to Smile

Andy Heberton, shown here with the oil painting presented to him last season during ceremonies at Memorial Arena which honored his feat of playing in 1,000 consecutive professional hockey games, had an even more memorable day yesterday. In Phoenix with Portland Buckaroos for tomorrow night's Western Hockey League game against the Roadrunners, Heberton with twins—a five-pound, seven-ounce boy and a six-pound girl—in Portland's Wilcox Memorial Hospital. They join a family which already includes 14-year-old Clay, 11-year-old Teresa and nine-year-old Karen.

Southern Cal Gets Three On All Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Hallback O. J. Simpson, offence-tackle Ron Yary and linebacker Adrian Young of Rose Bowl-bound University of Southern California have been named to the Associated Press All-America college football team.

Notre Dame, represented by Kevin Hardy, 20-foot defensive end, and defence-back Tom Schoen, was the only other college to place more than one player on the team.

In the offence backfield with Simpson were quarterback Gary Behan of UCLA, halfback Leroy Keyes of Purdue and fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse.

'Disastrous Circumstances' Acknowledged by Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Billy Joe Booth, line-man with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League, was fined $25 Thursday after his lawyer entered a plea of guilty of common assault.

The charge was laid by Roy Marsh, a Vancouver medical doctor, who said Booth pushed him at a hotel Aug. 21. Dr. Marsh said the incident took place after he asked Booth to refrain from using obscene language.

Booth did not appear in court but was represented by lawyer Jake Dunlop. Carleton County Magistrate J. A. Archambault, in fining Booth, noted he "belongs to a group which has met disastrous circumstances recently," a reference to Ottawa's lopsided loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Eastern Conference finals.

But violence cannot be condoned, the magistrate said.

Northern Needles Have Sharp Point

By ARNOLD OLSON
NANAIMO — The Great International Limerick Contest is over.
Open to the world at large, the contest offered four first prizes.
The spirit of the competition is based in humor, despite the undercurrents that prompted it. A sample entry goes:

There was a young man named Gagliardi
Who promised a road to Port Hardy.
He flew up in his jet
Tho' the road ain't built yet,
And said, "Please excuse my being tardy."
The contest is sponsored by Port McNeill and District Chamber of Commerce in an effort to get their 300 miles of ruts and gouges converted into a road.

Gerry Furney of Port McNeill handled the rules and information.
The four first prizes are complete steak dinners (with wine and candlelight), the Port McNeill Dalewood Inn, donated by five of that town's businesses.

A booklet of all entries will be published and sent to members of the legislative assembly of B.C.
The rules make it quite explicit that there are no restricting rules — families and friends of the judges may enter, and no skill testing question need by answered, but only standard limericks will be judged.

In the event the final date is extended, Box 333, Port McNeill, is the address.
It is obvious that the people of the north are cognizant of the fact that laughter accomplishes more than anger.
Despite the fact that regular users of the road connecting the northern communities with the south island, must write off several thousand dollars worth of car, the northern residents still have a sense of humor.

A rural minister once had this type of humor. After years of waiting for the church's much-promised volunteer paint job, he went out at night, painted squares on the whole church, and inserted the names of male members of the congregation into each square.

By the end of the week the church was painted.
If every member of the government were to have a section of road named in his honor who knows what miracles might be wrought.

'Merge Services'

DUNCAN — The first step towards an amalgamation between the city of Duncan and the Municipality of North Cowichan would be the formation of a committee from both, said mayor candidate Jim Quaife Thursday.
He is one of three to contest the seat Saturday.
The other two are Hamish Mutter and Elmore Clark.

Mr. Quaife said "I am a firm believer in amalgamation but we must be careful and sensible in our methods of obtaining it."
Until the final merger is made, joint services boards should be established for sewage, water, fire protection, recreation and garbage disposal, "to do away with this ridiculous waste of taxpayers' money in the duplication of services."

could amalgamate with areas close to Duncan.
"It would benefit the entire area involved."
Mr. Clark would also be in favor of joint services if it is economical feasible and practical.
He said the same applies to the two fire departments.
Ald. Hamish Mutter stressed an amalgamation of the entire Municipality of North Cowichan, and the city's boundary extension in the south would form one huge municipality with three deep sea ports which would encourage industry.
"We are entering a new era and we must co-operate on a very broad basis to bring about changes so vitally important."
Ald. Mutter said services like water, sewage, fire protection, recreation and SPCA should be handled by the region, "but until that comes about North Cowichan and the city should be working closely together."

Foes Attack Jordon On Amalgamation

By MARY TAYLOR
PORT ALBERNI — Fred Bishop and Les Hammer claim their opponent in the race for mayor, Loran Jordon, had no faith in amalgamation.
Mr. Hammer and Mr. Jordon have both run advertisements stressing their freedom from "company." Mr. Bishop works for MacMillan Bloedel.
So the tea party has finally become a battle as three men, all former mayors of Port Alberni or Alberni, fight to become first elected mayor of the new large city.

Jordon

"Personal integrity, not place of employment should be the measure," he said early in his campaign.

Both Mr. Hammer and Mr. Bishop have stressed the need for a mayor who believes in amalgamation.

Mr. Jordon, they contend, was never in favor of it, and as recently as a few months prior to the Kamloops join-up, was quoted in Kamloops papers as being against the procedure.

A mayor who does not believe in amalgamation cannot possibly be successful in administering such a new city as Port Alberni, both candidates have said.

Coffee Cups

Mayor Hammer has pointed a finger of scorn at the coffee parties which both Mr. Bishop and Mr. Jordon have attended, and said that while many persons had offered to provide work or funds for his one-man campaign, he refused.

Teacher Defends Right to Run

MILL BAY — Terence Taylor may be the first school principal to serve on a B.C. school board if he is elected Saturday.
Two out of three candidates seeking election as a trustee on the Cowichan District School Board spoke at a meeting sponsored by the South Cowichan Taxpayers Association.

There is one two-year vacancy for a trustee to represent the rural area south of Duncan, and the candidates are Edward Shaw, John Starkey and Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor said there are five teachers serving on school boards in British Columbia, but as a principal he may become a B.C. first.

Mr. Taylor lives at Cowichan Bay, but since he is employed by the Lake Cowichan School District he is eligible to run for trustee in the Cowichan School District.

He is now principal of Young Elementary at Youbou.
He told residents at the meeting, "What could be more logical than a school teacher on the school board?"
He said if elected trustee he will be able to use his experience as a teacher to consider

DUNCAN — A tiny, bright-eyed baby has become the No. 1 pinup girl of Cowichan Hospital.
The seven-pound infant was found abandoned shortly after birth and has been cared for by the hospital ever since.
Not yet a month old, she is thriving on the love and care being given her in the children's ward of the hospital.
Officially named Baby Joan for hospital records, she is "gaining weight well" and rates a special place in the affection of the nursing staff on the ward.
On Thursday, she posed patiently for her first portrait.
She was sound asleep when I arrived but soon awakened with a happy smile on her face.
As practical nurse Mrs. Phyllis Jorgensen cuddled her, she looked at the big camera and a wide-eyed look came over her face.

She didn't quite know whether to smile—or cry.
She split the difference.
As her tiny face began to crease in a smile, she threw her head back and let out a howl of indignation at the invasion of her privacy—and afternoon nap.
But it wasn't long before she became used to the camera and she was soon happily sucking her thumb and working at the beginnings of a grin.
Her small, fellow-patients in cribs on either side watched with interest.
The picture-taking over, Baby Joan was snugly tucked into a blanket and put back in her crib.
Within minutes, she was asleep again.
But not before giving me a big-eyed wink.
With that flick of her eye-lash, Baby Joan has just become my No. 1 pinup girl.

'Region Start Democratic'

COBBLE HILL — Municipal Affairs Minister Don Campbell has answered an appeal from residents in Cobble Hill, Shawnigan Lake and Mill Bay areas, protesting the methods used in forming the Cowichan Regional District.

The appeal had stressed the need for a plebiscite to allow residents to vote on whether they are in favor of a regional district being formed.

In the letter addressed to district spokesman David Laverock of Shawnigan Lake, Mr. Campbell said "As you know, by way of a unanimous vote of the last legislature, the province was to be divided into regional districts for hospital purposes."

"There was nothing undemocratic about the arrangement involved because when a regional district was formed any hospital projects resulting were to receive the approval of 50 per cent of the ratepayers in the area concerned.

LAKE COWICHAN — There will be only one election in Lake Cowichan this year.

Two men are running for the one-year unexpired term of school board chairman, Archie Greenwell, who has retired.

The candidates are Don Hammond and Bill Sutherland, and the elected trustee will represent the village of Lake Cowichan on the school board.

Newcomer

Mr. Sutherland is a newcomer to the school board scene.
He and his wife Bev have lived at Lake Cowichan for nine years.

They have three children and reside on River Road.
Mr. Sutherland worked for Crown Zellerbach for four years, and he has been an employee of the village for the past five years.

IWA Man

He is an active fireman, having been with the department for five years. Mr. Sutherland is a member of the IWA, and chairman of the centennial hall board.

Don Hammond has been a member of the board for four years, during which time he was chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.
He is presently the rural member for Honeymoon Bay and adjacent areas, where he has lived with his wife Beth and their five children.

Town Home

He has recently acquired a residence in Lake Cowichan and is seeking re-election to the board as a representative of the village.

Mr. Hammond is a former Kinsmen, and he was chairman of the construction committee for the new Cowichan District Hospital at Duncan.

He is also the regional college representative for the Lake Cowichan district, first scoutmaster for the First Lake Cowichan Scouts, and past president of the district Boy Scout Association, as well as being active in church work and other community affairs.

Youth Needed

Both candidates have definite opinions on why they are running for the trustee position.
Mr. Sutherland said, "I feel there is a definite need for younger people to take an active interest in the affairs of the community."

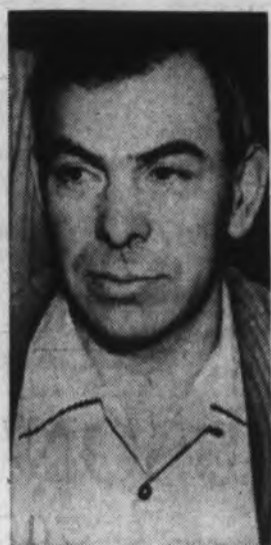

"As a married man with three young children, I am especially interested in educational facilities."

"I am also interested in the cost of these facilities. We do not want our taxpayers to be overburdened."

Mr. Hammond's reasons for seeking office on the school board again include his concern for building projects in the district.

Island Scene

Miss Heather Douglas, home economist of the B.C. Department of Agriculture, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jameson and Reeve Donald Morton and Mrs. Morton were among table guests at a recent 4-H Club banquet in Lake Cowichan . . . Behind the Decay, a History of People

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Scratch even the most loyal Vancouver Islander and you're apt to stick your finger on a prickly prairie thistle.

Bill Stavdal, beware!

In a book review in the Islander, Mr. Stavdal took a look at a book called Edmonton: A History, by James McGregor.

It's apparent that if the book had been written by Shakespeare himself, it would have been the reviewer's opinion that nothing good could come out of Edmonton.

Whatever Edmonton did to the poor man, one wonders what he must have done, in turn, to deserve it.

So the Saskatchewan is just a cold and muddy stream in an unremarkable depression that divides the city, is it?

Did he never see it in autumn, blue-green, and flanked with trees as scarlet and gold as any, even here on our lovely island?

At the end of a hot dusty day, didn't he ever eat supper on the shady side of the river, and take a dip in water that, because of its very scarcity, felt more welcome than the most lavish heated pool?

Mention of old Fort Edmonton decaying at the foot of the new parliament buildings in 1914, makes me undecided whether to laugh or cry.

Did Mr. Stavdal stay in Edmonton long enough to learn that the machinery to make the beautiful mouldings and window cases in the parliament buildings, had to be brought out especially from England, and of the time they had to find cabinet makers to do the intricate work? I know, because my father was one of them.

And old Fort Edmonton.

How the city fathers scoffed when that same little short Englishman, only four years in Canada, pleaded at a council meeting to have them preserve the old fort as a museum.

He was 50 years ahead of his time, but vindicated this year when old Fort Edmonton was recreated at Expo 67, sadly, too late for him and his friends to know they finally made their point.

Was Mr. Stavdal in Edmonton long enough to remember when the old colonist cars used to roll into the city in the early hours of the morning? Did he watch as the Ukrainians and other European immigrants poured off the train wearing their best native dress, speaking an unintelligible jargon and spreading the aroma of garlic and spices unknown on the prairies in those days, with every breath in the frosty air?

Did he stick around to see how those same people worked and saved and learned new ways, and helped put the one-time fur and wheat centre into top place in industrial development as well?

And let's take a look at Edmonton's "notably hard winters and occasional spring floods."

Fortunately the major spring flood was long ago, in 1913.

Does Mr. Stavdal know how little people acted like heroes in those few dreadful days, when the one and two-room shacks, all the homes many early settlers had, were washed down a roaring Saskatchewan like so many leaves on a brook?

Did he never hear how the women and children huddled in the brick schools on the flats where the waters took the worst toll, and how other families camped, some under canvas, others under whatever blankets and even table cloths they had been able to salvage, on the hilltop and watched helplessly while everything they had was swept away?

And of others who took their clotheslines and fastened them together. With the long wires they lashed some of the small cabins to those few houses in the community that had real concrete foundations.

Before the flood was over, the shacks swung like rowboats at anchor around the bigger houses.

But they held firm, and when the waters receded, the people went back and started all over again.

Sure the winters were long and cold. They still are. But every little community had its own slacking rink in the winter, usually the flooded football field, surrounded by a fence put up by volunteer labor.

For a dollar, the whole family could skate from freeze-up to thaw.

And if you didn't have the dollar, no one would chase a kid off the rink. He could get in for a single session for a nickel anyway.

The churches weren't very big and imposing either, but what felt knees more supplicatingly there were had been put up and bent than some of those that were maintained by people who knelt on the straw-filled red felt kneelers made by ladies of the congregation in somebody's wood-warmed kitchen.

I doubt if the Vatican ever

What, Nothing?

Editor's note: Mr. Stavdal advises that he is confirmed in his opinion that nothing good ever came out of Edmonton. He also advises us that he was born there.

Tofino News

Gibson Remains Chairman

TOFINO — Thomas Gibson was elected by acclamation to another term as chairman of the village. Running for two seats on council are incumbent Kenneth Barr and two new men, Ronald Rolker and Nick Seymour.

Women of the auxiliary to the general hospital here announced the Christmas bazaar and raffle made a profit of $400. The money will go to purchase equipment for the hospital. Mrs. William Sharp is head of the auxiliary.

Bus Hansen, a well-known west coast resident, has been away from Tofino for two months, prospecting in the Pentiction area.

Tenders will be accepted at the village office up to Dec. 28 for purchase of a building and lot in Tofino. Details can be received from the municipal clerk. Terms will be 50 per cent down, the rest by May 1.

The village is making arrangements for clearing of the new hall site. Tenders were called for the job. Another job requiring tenders is construction of sidewalks at Tofino teacher's age. Bid will be received until Dec. 13. The school board also wants clearing of a parking lot at the rear of the teacherage.

Mrs. Ray Turnbull was presented with the past president's pin, at a meeting of the Royal Canadian Legion, Tofino Branch. Mrs. Raymon Skoman was in charge of the special meeting.

Ron Matterson was presented with a 40-year-pin at a meeting of the Tofino Legion Branch. He saw active service overseas in the First World War.

First membership meeting of Alberni Credit Union was held in Tofino recently. Elected to the advisory board were Ronald Folker, Ray Turnbull and Allan Heyd.

Hard Work Honored

LAKE COWICHAN — Twenty-two people, including the entire school board, turned out to a recent gathering to honor two people who have been associated with the board for several years. The guests were Mrs. Mildred Child and Archibald Greenwall, who have been connected with the board for 20 and 25 years respectively, and who retire at the end of the month.

CAMPBELL RIVER — An award for many years of service to the B.C. Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Society has been made to Helen Towler. She moved to Courtenay four years ago. The award of a gold pin was made by Ralph A. Barnard of Vancouver.

COURTENAY — Toby Makin, head of the chamber of commerce civic affairs committee, told the chamber Courtenay has increased in acreage, building permits have risen, and Comox has introduced a five-year plan.

DUNCAN — Harry Morton Snake, Duncan, was fined $300 for impaired driving. His driver's licence was suspended for six months. George Roy James, Duncan, was fined $150 for impaired driving, $50 for drinking in public, and $25 for driving without a licence. His right to get a licence was suspended for one year.

NORTH COWICHAN — "Council showed great co-operation in allowing us to use the basement of the new municipal hall," said president of the Cowichan Judo Club, Max Glezekamp. He said council reacted quickly after the submission was made to North Cowichan Recreation Commission. A total of 14 club members, ranging in age from 10 to 40 will take part in the Vancouver Island judo tournament in Victoria today.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Campbell River Pollution Control Society scheduled its annual meeting recently during which an interim report was to be made on three months of pollution investigation of local lakes.

B.C. Bond Issue

Schools Helped

By IAN STREET

The provincial government will pour $15,000,000 into new school construction by means of a new bond issue to be taken up by government-administered pension funds.

The cabinet Thursday approved sale of debentures. Proceeds of the bond issue will be apportioned among various school districts, according to need, with the allocation being decided by the department of education before Dec. 15, when the issue closes.

NO BORROWING
The entire amount will be taken up by the government-administered pension funds, and won't involve borrowing on the open market. The bonds, yielding 6 1/2 per cent, are repayable in 20 years.

More than $60,000,000 has been spent on B.C. schools in the past year. The province sold $83,000,000 worth of debentures for the purpose between October, 1966, and October of this year, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said in Vancouver recently.

BY CHRISTMAS
Greater Victoria at the moment has about $2,500,000 worth of projects awaiting provincial approval, and expects to add another $2,000,000 by Christmas.

The cabinet order-in-council, released by the premier's office late Thursday afternoon, permits

BIG SPENDING SLASH HITS VICTORIA PLANS

Benson

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government Thursday dropped dozens of pet projects from its 1968-69 spending plans in a long-heralded series of austerity moves announced in the Commons by Revenue Minister Benson.

Ottawa cut hard into civil service expansion, reduced the budgets of the CBC and a host of government agencies, suspended all work on the causeway to Prince Edward Island from New Brunswick, and said a review of causeway plans will look into everything from a solid crossing to hovercraft ferry service.

In B.C., the main effects will be in the Victoria area—deferral of a West Coast Oceanographic Institute, and delays for a forest research laboratory and a Veterans' Hospital addition. Work will be slowed on the Queen Elizabeth telescope in the Interior.

B.C. will also be hit by a reduced subsidy for construction of steel hull fishing trawlers and a halt to contracts for large search and rescue cutters.

Attorney-General Bonner greeted the news by saying the economy measures hardly touched the main spending area where thrift could be achieved.

SLIGHT EXPANSION

He noted growth of the federal civil service will be limited to two per cent or 5,000 positions in the next fiscal year, half the usual, and said the "big bill in government is not projects, the big bill is payroll and all they've said is the payroll is being allowed to expand ever so slightly."

Mr. Bonner also criticized a renewal of the decision to start national medicare next July 1 and Resources Minister Williston said an $80,000,000 limit to provinces for construction of vocational training schools, down one-third from this year, hits job placement . . . "a most critical area."

TENTATIVE STAGE

A spokesman for the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria said the postponed addition was only in the tentative planning stage, while local forest research director R. R. LeJeune said the deferred expansion was not a large one.

Biggest project deferred in Greater Victoria was the Oceanographic Institute, talked of since 1960 and rumored for Esquimalt harbor.

Benson called the government measures "a difficult but necessary task."

WILL TAKE OVER

His speech ended the special anti-poverty secretariat in Ottawa. The cabinet secretariat will take over.

Retired civil servants will go without higher supplementary pension benefits through 1968-69. Benson said the Dominion Coal Board will be abolished, emergency-measures programs scaled down, and the armed forces reduced by attrition to a strength of 100,000 from the current level of 107,000.

SEPARATE AREAS

The CBC international service will be merged with the CBC proper in the corporation's regular budgeting next year.

The revenue minister delivered 51 separate areas of cuts and delays, saying they are just some of the economies necessary to live within the government's self-imposed spending ceiling of $10,300,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

The government, like a large business, "must from time to time reflect and review its prospects," he said.

COMPANY-CUT

"We must make hard decisions in order that in the long run our business may prosper." Among specific cuts are a 20-per-cent reduction in the budget of the Company of Young Canadians, an $11,000,000 reduction in the CBC's requested operating budget and $32,000,000 reduction in the capital budget it wanted.

Benson said necessary increases in postal staff to maintain service will take up fully 2,000 of the 5,000 new civil service positions to be opened up next year.

The Details

- Civil service growth rate limited to two per cent, half the rate of recent years.
- Reduction of armed forces to 100,000 men from the present 107,000.
- CBC to absorb cost of running the CBC international services within its operating budget.
- CBC operating budget to be $11,000,000 less than asked, and CBC capital budget to be $25,000,000, or $32,000,000 less than asked.
- Expansion of CBC color TV facilities deferred.
- New forestry research labs in Winnipeg, Victoria, Fredericton, Quebec and Newfoundland deferred.
- Plans deferred for building addition to Victoria Veteran's Hospital in B.C. and Camp Hill Hospital in Halifax.
- Work of Queen Elizabeth Telescope in B.C. to be slowed down.
- Starts on West Coast Oceanographic Institute, a floating laboratory and two

Only Five Back NDP In Confidence Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Only four Creditists and one independent MP supported the NDP Thursday as the Commons defeated a non-confidence motion involving Finance Minister Sharp's tax increase.

The 186-24 vote saw 75 Conservatives, three Socials and another independent support 165 Liberals. A Tory non-confidence motion goes to a vote Monday.

Ouimet Quits In Sequel To Judy Feud

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's long search for a new CBC president took on added urgency Thursday as Prime Minister Pearson announced Alphonse Ouimet has asked to be relieved of the $40,000-a-year post Dec. 15, and his firm resignation has been accepted.

Ouimet

The arrangement was made between the two in a telephone call by Ouimet Nov. 17, just two weeks after the CBC president feuded with State Secretary Judy LaMarsh over her charge of "rotten management" in the CBC.

NEW BILL

Ouimet originally announced his intention to resign in October of 1966 but said then he would stay on until the government's proposed new broadcasting legislation was passed.

Although the long-delayed bill still is before the Commons, he told Mr. Pearson in a confirming letter Nov. 23 that he would like to leave by Dec. 15 "for personal reasons." He is 59.

Pearson also agreed with Ouimet's suggestion that, if

Press Faces Strike Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver-New Westminster Newspaper Guild decided Thursday night to launch strike action against Pacific Press Ltd. at 8 a.m. today.

Contract talks between Pacific Press, which prints Vancouver's two daily newspapers, and the Guild broke off earlier Thursday with the Guild saying it had "no alternative but to take some other route." (Earlier story on Page 6.)

Len Guy, president of the Vancouver local of the International Typographical Union, said printers at Pacific Press would not cross picket lines established by the Guild.

The Guild represents about 670 editorial, advertising, business office, circulation, department and other non-mechanical employees at the Sun and Province.

Wednesday, Pacific Press made what it called its final offer — a wage increase of 16 per cent in a 28-month contract on wages that range from $47 a week to the key senior reporter classification of $147.75.

The Guild made a counterproposal calling for increases ranging from $18 a week for employees earning less than $50 to $37.50 for those earning $140 or more. This was rejected by the company.

Thursday, at a further meeting requested by the Guild, the Guild reduced its demands to 22 per cent, over 28 months. This also was rejected.

Pacific Press last week reached tentative agreement with four craft unions — printers, mailers, stereotypers and pressmen — on new contracts, but these have yet to be ratified by the union membership.

B.C. has reached agreement with the federal government on a formula to provide increasing housing in this province, Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Thursday.

He said in an interview the scheme is a new federal-provincial partnership but he declined to give details. Mr. Campbell also indicated his colleagues gave the plan cabinet approval Thursday morning.

Details are expected to be announced today.

LONG DISCUSSIONS

Mr. Campbell said the new plan was arrived at following lengthy discussions between himself and Labor Minister Jack Nicholson, whose portfolio includes the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

He said the plan will involve municipal as well as provincial and federal shares of expenditures, but he would not give a breakdown.

POSSIBLE MODEL

Mr. Campbell added the B.C.-Ottawa agreement will not be presented as a proposal by him at next week's federal-provincial housing conference. However, he said, it might be discussed as a possible model for other provinces.

Housing authorities speculated the plan involves setting up of a provincial housing authority to administer housing for the elderly, welfare cases and students.

The Ontario government this year set up HOME—Home Ownership Made Easy—a plan that allows persons to obtain a building lot without purchasing it immediately.

Purchasers have the choice of leasing the lot for 50 years or buying it on time over 35 years. After having obtained the lot, the prospective homeowner is responsible for his own building arrangements.

KIDNAPPERS GIVEN 24-HOUR DEADLINE

PARIS (UPI) — Interior Minister Christian Fouchet Thursday gave the kidnappers of a seven-year-old Versailles boy, Emmanuel Mallart, 24 hours to return the child to his parents.

Fouchet went on national television to tell the abductors he was calling off a massive police search in the hopes the child will be returned.

"The life of a child has a supreme value, more than any money," Fouchet said. "Think things over. Return this child safe and sound. I give you 24 hours, until midnight, Dec. 8." Fouchet said the manhunt would be resumed after midnight.

Young People Want to Share Christmas

Victoria's young people are rallying to ensure that their anticipated Christmas treats will be shared by all the city's youngsters, through The Daily Colonist 500 Fund.

Brownies of the 1st Gorge View troop have brought in their annual donation of "fairy gold," and members of Colquitz school choir have also sent in a donation.

"We feel that in this year especially we would like to help our fellow man," says a letter from Colquitz. "We hope this donation will bring happiness into someone else's life."

Meanwhile, four chapters of DeMolay, boys between 14 and 18, are arranging a dance to help the 500 Fund. The Molis group will be donating their services for the dance at the YMCA from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday. "Last year we gave about $125 to the fund, but we hope to get twice that much this year," said a DeMolay officer.

The Oak Bay, Goldstream, Signal Hill and Victoria chapters are arranging the dance. Anyone in semi-formal dress will be admitted at the door.

Tickets are $1 each or $1.75, and all profits will go to the fund.

Donations to the 500 Fund — and all are welcome — may be mailed in or brought to the Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or to Avis Rent-A-Car, 800 Douglas.
